PUBLISHERS' PREFACE.

THE publication of "SUPPLEMENT No. 8" to the "ENGLISH AND EMPIRE DIGEST" affords the Publishers a fitting opportunity of emphasising the increased utility of the Digest, in view of the Digest citations added to cases in the Replacement Volumes of "HALSBURY'S LAWS OF ENGLAND." The Digest thus takes its proper place as a recognised citation, and the interrelation of these two great complementary works is most clearly demonstrated.

The close co-operation existing between the Editorial Department responsible for the production of "HALSBURY" and the Editor of the Digest Supplement has resulted in the addition to Supplement No. 8 of a number of statutory cross-references designed to draw attention to changes in the law rendering obsolete the cases to which they are appended.

WORDS AND PHRASES.

In response to many requests a Title "WORDS AND PHRASES" has been added to the Supplement, in continuation of the valuable collection of judicial interpretations appearing under this heading in the Comprehensive Index, Vol. XLVIII., pp. 1894 et seq.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.

Since the appearance of the last Supplement the PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE VOLUME of the Digest has been published, and the latest cases falling within these Titles are therefore Digested in the present Supplement. Arrangements have also been made to include the text of amendments and additions to the Rules of the Supreme Court, following the system adopted in the PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE VOLUME.

MEANING OF TERMS

USED IN CLASSIFYING ANNOTATING CASES.

THE different expressions used to describe the effect of the annotating cases have the following meanings, and the classification of the annotating cases has been done strictly in accordance with these meanings. The annotating cases, except such as are classified as "Mentioned," are grouped according to the points in the case which they annotate: within these groups they are listed chronologically, except such as are classified as "Referred to," which come at the end of the group and are arranged inter se in chronological order. Cases which annotate the annotated case generally are grouped together after cases which annotate specific points, similarly arranged, and are followed by cases classified as "Mentioned" arranged chronologically inter se. The terms used in classifying the annotating cases are as follows:—

"APPLIED" (Apld.).—This expression is used to denote the fact that the principle of law enunciated in the annotated case has been applied to a new set of facts and circumstances in the annotating case.

"APPROVED" (Apprvd.).—This expression is used to denote the fact that the annotated case has been considered to be good law in the annotating case where the latter is in a higher court than the former.

"CONSIDERED" (Consd.).—This expression is used where the remarks in the annotating case are devoid of adverse criticism and merely denote the giving of more or less careful consideration to the annotated case.

"DISTINGUISHED" (Distd.).—This expression is used where the earlier case is not necessarily doubted, but where some essential difference (either on the facts or in law) between it and the annotated case is pointed out.

"DOUBTED" (Dbtd.).—This expression is used where the court in the annotating case without definitely going to the length of saying that the annotated case is wrong, adduces reasons which seem to show that it is not accurate.

"EXPLAINED" (Expld.).—This expression is used where the earlier case is not necessarily doubted, but the decision arrived at is justified or accounted for by calling attention to some point of fact or of law which is usually, but not necessarily, one not obvious on the face of the report.

"EXTENDED" (Extd.).—Compare "APPLIED," supra.

"FOLLOWED" (Folld.).—This expression is used to denote that the same principles of law are applied in the two cases. It does not necessarily imply that the facts are substantially identical in the two cases.

"NOT FOLLOWED" (N.F.).—Compare "FOLLOWED," supra, to which it is the adverse.

"OVERRULED" (Overd.).—This expression is used where the annotating case is on substantially identical facts with the annotated case and in a higher court and the rule in the latter case is held to be wrong.

"REFERRED" (Refd.).—This expression is used only where the annotating case deals with the point of the Digest paragraph and is without comment of any definite character on the case annotated, and where there is no delicate shade of approval or disapproval which would justify the use of any of the foregoing words.

"MENTIONED" (Mentd.).—This expression is used only where none of the foregoing terms apply. In other words, it is used only where the case annotated is cited on a point having nothing to do with the point in the Digest paragraph.

18b. ——, ——, ——.]—The appeal began with a preliminary objection by counsel for resps. that the appeal was out of time, because fourteen days' notice had not been given. In the Mersey Docks cases (No. 18a, ante) that we have just concluded, we unfortunately spent two or three hours in considering whether the time was fourteen days or six weeks. The reasons for our decision will appear when at some later time we give the considered judgment in the Mersey Docks case, but I have the authority of my brothers for stating that at present, for reasons which will appear in the Mersey Docks judgment, the majority of the ct. is of opinion that the time, is fourteen days (SCRUTTON, L.J.).—WILKINSON (TAUNTON REVENUE OFFICER) v. SIBLEY & DONOVAN, [1932] 1 K. 90a. —— ——.]—The Food Controller requisitioned certain cattle feeding stuffs under Defence of the Realm Regulations, but whether under reg. 2 B. or reg. 2 F. was doubtful. By reg. 2 B. the price to be paid for goods taken thereunder was to be determined by the tribunal by which claims for compensation under Defence of the Realm Regulations were determined, but was not to exceed a certain maximum price fixed by an Ord. in Council. By reg. 2 F. compensation for goods taken thereunder was to be paid as determined by an arbitrator, taking into account the cost of production of the goods & a reasonable profit. The maximum price fixed by the Ord. in Council has been paid. The Defence of the Realm Losses Commission having refused to entertain a claim for compensation, the owners of the goods presented a petition of right, claiming that the Food Controller had acted under reg. 2 F., & that they were entitled to compensation fixed by arbn. thereunder. At the trial the judge held that the Controller had acted under reg. 2 B., & dismissed the petition. On July 22, 1920, suppliants gave notice of appeal. On Aug. 16, 1920, Indemnity Act, 1920 (c. 48), was passed :—Held : (1) the appeal was not a " proceeding instituted " within sect. 1 of the Act ; (2) those words do not include a final judgment given before the passing of the Act, & therefore the appeal well lay.—ROBINSON (J.) & Co. v. R., [1921] 3 K. 5a. Action—Claim for damages & injunction—Transfer of Land Act, 1893 (No. 14), s. 117.]—The term " action at law " in the above sect. embrances an action of the nature of a suit in equity, e.g. a claim for an injunction & damages in respect of trespass to & interference with a right of way.—STRELITZ BROTHERS v. BRITNALL (1912), 15 W. 5b. —— Divorce petition—Insolvency Act, 1915 (No. 2671), s. 174.]—The word " action " in the above sect. does not include a proceeding by petition in divorce.—Re HARVEY, [1920] V. L. R. 142.—AUS.

5c. —— Petition of right.]—A petition of right is not an " action." The definitions of " actions " in Judicature Act & rules are merely a conventional method of interpreting the statute & rules, adopted for the sake of brevity & simplicity, & not for the purpose of changing the true nature of things.—MILLAR v. R., [1921] 49 O. 5d. Proceeding in action—Application for relief against distraint—War Relief Act.]—The above Act empowers a judge of the Supreme Ct. to dispense with the restrictions therein contained. Applt. distrained against resp. under a mtge. notwithstanding that resp. was within the protection of the Act. Resp. applied to a county ct. judge as " local judge " of the Supreme Ct. for relief, who made an order against resp. dispensing with the restrictions of the Act :—Held : the local judge had no jurisdiction, as the proceeding was not a proceeding in an " action," as required under the wording of the Ord. in Council, June 16, 1906. Resp.'s proper remedy against applt. was by injunction to restrain applt. from invading his rights under the Act.—HANNA v. COSTERTON, [1919] 1 W.W.R. 930 ; 44 D. L. R. 478.—CAN.

5e. Proceeding — Canadian National Railways Act, s. 15.]—A writ of garnishment attaching moneys owed by the Canadian National Railway Corpn. to a judgment debtor in its employment is a " proceeding " within Canadian National Railways Act, s. 15, & may therefore issue " without a fiat " from the Crown.—CANADIAN NATIONAL RY. 104 ii. ——.]—The expression " a cause of action " in Supreme Ct. Act, 1915 (No. 2733), s. 141, means the particular act or omission occasioning the injury complained of, & so giving rise to pltf.'s claim, not every fact material to be proved in order to entitle pltf. to succeed.—CHIDZEY v. BRECKLER, [1920] V. L. R. 558.—AUS.

104 iii. ——.]—The " cause of action " in District Cts. Act, R. S. S., 1920 (c. 40), s. 29, means the whole cause of action, including every material fact which pltf. must allege & prove to give him a right to judgment, & therefore if the whole cause of a district ct. action did not arise in one judicial district the action should be brought in that district where deft. or one of several defts. resides or carries on business. Notwithstanding sect. 2, sub-sect. 2 (2), of the Act providing that in the Act unless there is something in the subject or context repugnant thereto the expressions " cause " & " action " shall respectively have the same meaning as the same expressions have in King's Bench Act, the words " the cause of action " in sect. 29 should not be construed in the same way as in King's Bench Act, s. 35, because in sect. 29 " there is something in the subject or context repugnant thereto," namely, the fact that sect. 29 confers jurisdiction on an inferior ct. & therefore must be strictly construed, jurisdiction not being assumed beyond what is clearly con-

249a. —— —— Unlawful means used.]—A single person or a body of persons commits an actionable wrong if he or they inflict actual pecuniary damage upon another by the intentional employment of unlawful means, such as threats of coercive action, to injure that person's business, even though the unlawful means may not comprise any specific act which is per se actionable & actual malice is not proved. The element of conspiracy in a case of this kind is of importance only in considering the weight of the acts alleged & the extent of the damage resulting therefrom.

Pltfs., who were members of the co., complained that the deft. had induced certain of the sailors to break the contract by promising to get them employment & by obtaining other engagements for them. By amendment it was further alleged that deft. had wrongfully continued persons in her employment with the knowledge that by being in her employment those persons were breaking a contract with pltfs.:—Held: assuming an action lies to recover damages on the latter ground, the foundation of this action is that there shall be notice to deft. of a subsisting contract which one party, at all events, is still willing & able to perform; & there being sufficient evidence before the county ct. judge that the partnership had for all practical purposes come to an end, no action lay.—LONG v. SMITHSON (1918), 88 L. The occupier of adjoining premises was a farmer. The rats made runs between the factory & the fields & entered the farmer's land, & damaged his crops. The business had been carried on for at least thirty years, & there was no evidence to show that the bone heap had been increased beyond what it had been in past years, or anything to show that an increase which had actually taken place in the numbers of the rats was due to anything done by the manufacturers. 258 ii. —— Heightened fence.]—Applt. & resp. owned & resided upon adjoining properties. In 1925 resp. erected an 8 ft. iron fence or hoarding on the boundary between the properties. In 1929 resp. raised the fence to a height of 18 ft. in order to shield his lavatory from the view of an attic window which applt. had erected. On the day the work of heightening was started applt. notified resp. that, as the fence could not be erected without a trespass being committed, he would sue for damages if the work were proceeded with. A few days later applt. obtained an interdict restraining resp. from trespassing on his land. Applt. then instituted the present action, claiming damages on the ground that resp. had maliciously by himself, his servants and/or workmen trespassed upon the land for the purpose of erecting a hoarding on the boundary. It was proved that on one occasion a piece of timber fell upon applt.'s land & was immediately removed by the workmen:—Held: (1) although the heightening of the fence depreciated the value of applt.'s property, applt. could not recover damages, even if the work had been done maliciously; (2) as resp. had not trespassed under a claim of right & had not insolently or defiantly insisted upon going on applt.'s land, applt. was not entitled to succeed.—VANSTON v. FROST, [1930] W. 387a. —— Notwithstanding restrictions on exercise of sovereign rights.]—(1) It is the settled practice of the ct. to take judicial notice of the status of any foreign Govt., & for that purpose, in any case of uncertainty, to seek information from a Secretary of State; & the information so received is conclusive.

(2) A Govt. recognised as sovereign by His Majesty's Govt. is not the less exempt from the jurisdiction of our cts. because it has agreed to restrictions on the exercise of its sovereign rights.

By a deed dated in July, 1912, the Govt. of Kelantan granted to applt. co. certain mining & other rights to be exercised in that State, & the deed contained an arbn. clause, which incorporated Arbn. Act, 1889 (c. 49), so far as applicable. Disputes having arisen as to the effect of the deed, they were referred to an arbitrator, who made an award in favour of the co. & directed the Govt. to pay the costs of the arbn. In Dec. 1921, the Govt. applied to the Ch. Div., under Arbn. Act, 1889, s. 11, to set aside the award, but the application was refused. In June, 1922, the co. obtained from the K. B. Div., under sect. 12 of the Act, an order giving leave to enforce the award, but the order was set aside, on the application of the Govt., on the ground that Kelantan was a sovereign independent State. Before setting aside the order the master asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies for information as to the status of Kelantan, & received in reply an official letter stating that Kelantan was an independent State & its Sultan the sovereign ruler thereof, & that the King did not exercise or claim any rights of sovereignty over Kelantan, & enclosing an agreement regulating the relations between the Sultan & the King. By this agreement the Sultan agreed to have no political relations with any foreign power except through the medium of the King, & in all matters of administration, other than those touching the Mohammedan religion & Malay custom, to follow the advice of an adviser appointed by the King :—Held : (1) the statement in the letter as to the sovereignty of Kelantan & its rulers was not intended to be qualified by the terms of the agreement, & the letter was conclusive; (3) the Govt. of Kelantan had not submitted to the jurisdiction of the ct. for the purpose of the proceedings to enforce the award, either by assenting to the arbn. clause or by applying to the ct. to set aside the award.—DUFF DEVELOPMENT CO. v. KELANTAN GOVERNMENT, [1924] A. 392a. -.]—(1) In proceedings in the cts. of this country by or against the ruler of a colonial State whose status is disputed a written statement by the Secretary of State for the Colonies that the ruler is an independent foreign sovereign is equivalent to a communication from the Crown &. therefore, conclusive, & the ct. will accept it without considering whether it is borne out by documents which are appended to it.

In an arbn. in this country between pltf. co. & the Govt. of Kelantan an award was made in favour of the co. with costs. The Govt. of Kelantan then moved to set aside the award & this motion was dismissed with costs. An appeal from this decision was also dismissed with costs. No portion of these costs had been paid. The co. obtained a garnishee order nisi to attach money in the hands of the Crown agents of the Colonies on behalf of the Govt. of Kelantan. Upon an application by the co. for payment by the garnishees the Govt. of Kelantan & the Crown agents appeared together & contended that Kelantan was an independent sovereign State & the ct. had no jurisdiction to execute the orders for costs by a levy on the property of that State :—Held : (2) although the Govt. of Kelantan had, by initiating proceedings to set aside the award of the arbitrator, submitted to the jurisdiction of the ct., (3) that submission had not the effect of rendering liable to execution any property belonging to the Govt. within the jurisdiction. —DUFF DEVELOPMENT CO. v. KELANTAN GOVERNMENT, [1923] 1 Ch. 385 ; 92 L. PART V. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 1.

498 ii. —— —— Claim under Criminal Injuries Code of Ireland.]—The rule or doctrine that no civil remedy will lie against the perpetrators of a felonious act until they have been prosecuted to conviction is not applicable to a claim for compensation under Criminal Injuries Code of Ireland for goods stolen in the course of rioting.—TYLER v. CORK COUNTY COUNCIL, [1921] 2 I. R. 8.—IR.

499 i. —— ——.]—A criminal charge was laid by pltf. bank against deft. in respect of $1,800 which the bank alleged it had overpaid deft. Before decision in the criminal trial had been given, pltfs. instituted an action to recover the money. It was contended on behalf of deft. that immediately the evidence disclosed a criminal offence on the part of deft., which had not been prosecuted to conviction or acquittal, pltfs. should not have been allowed to proceed with the action, but should have been non-suited :—Held : as a criminal prosecution had actually been carried through, even though the decision was under advisement, the action could be maintained.—STANDARD BANK OF CANADA v. SHUEN WAH, [1919] 1 W. W. R. 586; 26 B. C. R. 441.—CAN.

499 ii. —— ——.]—Where, in an action for assault & battery, pltf. proves that the injury caused grievous bodily harm, pltf. will be nonsuited unless it appears that proceedings have been taken against deft. for the criminal offence.—SCHOHL v. KAY (1862), 10 N. B. R. (5 All.) 244.—CAN.

504 iii. —— —— —— ——.]—No hard & fast rule can be laid down to indicate the considerations by which a ct. ought to be guided in considering the question of the stay of a criminal proceeding, pending the disposal of a civil suit, & each case must be determined upon its own facts. Even if some or all the matters materially in issue are the same, that in itself cannot be a reason for staying the criminal proceedings. One test is whether the prosecution is public or private. Where it is public the ct. as a rule would not stay criminal proceedings.—GOPALCHANDRA CHAKRAVARTI v. KING EMPEROR (1929), I. L. R. 57; Calc. 558.—IND.

504 iv. —— —— ——.]—The rule that where pltf. sues in respect of a wrong which is a tort & also a felony, deft. should be prosecuted in respect of the felony before the civil action is heard, does not make such criminal prosecution an indispensable condition precedent to the right to maintain the civil action. In its modern application the rule is merely suspensory of the civil rights, & is subject to the exercise of judicial discretion. In exercising such discretion the ct. may consider circumstances, such as the infancy, ignorance, or poverty of pltf., which may afford excuse for the failure to prosecute in respect of the felony. Where pltf. has obtained a verdict in the civil action, the ct., on motion for a new trial or for judgment, may consider the circumstance that between verdict & motion deft. has been prosecuted in respect of the felony.—CARLISLE v. ORR (No. 2), [1918] 2 I. R. 442.—IR.

504 v. —— —— ——.]—On Aug. 12, 1920, an information for theft was laid by defts. against pltf. On Aug. 23, 1920, pltf. began an action in a division ct. against defts. to recover $99 for wages; on Aug. 30, defts. counterclaimed in the division ct. action for money & tickets amounting to $202.74, "fraudulently & without colour of right" converted by pltf. to his own use, the subject of conversion being the same as that in respect of which the criminal charge was made; on Sept. 22 pltf. was committed for trial on the criminal charge, & on Sept. 30, a true bill was found against him in the sessions. On a subsequent day the judge of the division ct. heard argument as to whether the action should be proceeded with before the criminal charge was taken up; he decided that it should, & fixed a day for trial, but on Dec. 10, 1920, neither the action nor the criminal proceeding having been tried, an order was made by a judge of the Supreme Ct. of Ontario, upon the application of defts., prohibiting the judge of the division court from proceeding in the action until after the final disposition of the criminal prosecution. Pltf. appealed from this order, & before the completion of the argument of the appeal pltf. was tried upon the criminal charge & acquitted :—Held : the division ct. judge had the right, the claim & counterclaim being within the jurisdiction of the ct., to stay proceedings or otherwise deal with the case; & prohibition did not lie, even if the judge erred in the conclusion to which he came.—Re BRYANT v. CITY DAIRY CO. 604a. Assignment of option to take lease.]—In 1853 the L. & C. Ry. Co., the predecessors of deft. co., leased land adjacent to the station at Carlisle to H. for 999 years, for the purpose of erecting an hotel thereon. The lease contained a covenant by the co. with H., his exors., administrators & limited assigns that "the co. & their successors & assigns shall permit the tenant or occupier of the hotel for the time being & his servants to have access to the platforms of the station & that the tenant or occupier of the hotel shall have the option of renting the refreshment rooms" at a rent to be fixed as there mentioned, "in preference to any other party." In 1860 H. granted a sub-lease of the hotel premises to B. for 21 years, & the co. also granted to B. a lease of the refreshment rooms for 21 years. In 1866 pltf. co. obtained an assignment from B. of his interest under these two documents. & an assignment from H. of the land comprised in the lease of 1853 & "All & singular other premises comprised in & demised by the said recited indenture of lease of Aug. 1, 1853." From 1866 onwards pltfs. managed & conducted both hotel & refreshment rooms, & after the expiration of the 21 years' term granted by the sub-lease of 1860 to B., they continued in occupation of the rooms upon such terms of that sub-lease as were applicable. In 1879 defts. succeeded by statute to the contracts of the L. & C. Ry. Co. On April 2, 1891, defts. & the Caledonian Ry. Co. demised to pltfs. a plot of land adjacent to the hotel for 962 years. The deed recited the lease of 1853, & referred to it as the "principal indenture"; & it also provided that "these presents are without prejudice to any of the covenants conditions & agreements contained in the principal indenture," which were to remain & be in full force. On Mar. 24, 1916, defts. gave six months' notice to pltfs. to determine their occupation of the refreshment rooms. Pltfs. gave up possession, & then served a written notice on defts. stating their desire to exercise the option contained in the lease of 1853, & requesting to be informed as to terms. Defts. having ignored the notice, pltfs., on Oct. 16, 1916, obtained an express assignment from the personal representatives of H., who had died in 1876, of "all that the benefit right title & interest. if any, now remaining outstanding of or otherwise vested in them or any or either of them of & in the railway obligations." Pltfs. claimed (a) a declaration that defts. by the lease of 1853 were under an obligation to put & keep the occupier of pltfs.' hotel in occupation of the refreshment rooms, upon the terms of paying therefor a fixed market rent; (b) to have such rent fixed under the direction of the ct.; (c) damages for the breach of such obligation by defts.:—Held: (1) the option clause did not run with the land, & pass ipso facto by the assignment of the lease of 1853, as it did not touch or concern the thing demised; (2) the option clause was assignable, & was not a covenant merely personal to the covenantee; (3) the benefit of this clause was not assigned by the deed of 1866, inasmuch as the word "premises" therein referred to the land & buildings demised, & not to the option clause; (4) the deed of 1891 was not a fresh grant of the option rights to pltfs., & did not constitute a binding recognition of pltfs. as the assignees of the option clause; (5) the assignment of Oct. 16, 1916, by the personal representatives of H., of the option clause in the lease of 1853, being an assignment of a right of property, was not invalid for champerty; (6) the option clause was void for uncertainty; (7) the option clause was ultra vires of the railway co., as it fettered injuriously & gravely their obligations of performing efficiently their public duties.—COUNTY HOTEL & WINE CO. v. LONDON & NORTH WESTERN RY. 621a. —— —— Dilapidations.]—A freehold messuage & tenement were the subject of the following leases: (a) a head lease which expired on Dec. 25, 1917; (b) an underlease which expired on Dec. 18, 1917; (c) a sub-underlease which expired on Dec. 15, 1917. All three leases contained onerous covenants to repair the premises & to keep them & yield them up in good repair. The sub-underlease became vested by assignment in deft. On Dec. 18, 1917, pltf. who had been a tenant to deft. of the same premises, & was liable to him under a covenant to repair less onerous than those in the three leases above mentioned, agreed to purchase, & on May 1, 1918, took a conveyance of the fee simple of the premises together with the benefit of the covenants in the head lease. At the expiration of all the leases the premises were out of repair & deft. was threatening pltf. with an action on his covenant. Thereupon pltf. obtained an assignment of the full benefit of the lessee's covenants to repair contained in the sub-underlease, & commenced an action against deft. as assignee of the sub-underlease for breaches of the lessee's covenants therein:—Held: the assignment was free from objection on the ground of maintenance or champerty, the right of action on the covenants being so connected with the enjoyment of property as to be more than a bare right to litigate.—ELLIS v. TORRINGTON, [1920] 1 K. 637a. —— Actions for infringement of copyright—Society for protection of copyright interests of members.]—Pltf. society was formed as a limited co. to protect the copyright interests of members, who assigned their copyrights to the society. By the rules of the society fees & damages recovered were pooled, & the fund so formed was divided among the members after the deduction of expenses. The assignments were real & substantial transactions, & the provision as to the division of the damages was only subsidiary. sz. Abolition of distinction between felonies & misdemeanors—Action against company—Prosecution of directors.]—Even if the rule, that where an injury constitutes both a civil wrong & a felony the civil remedy is suspended or may be stayed until the person who committed the injury has been prosecuted, is in force in Alberta, it is inapplicable where the civil action is against an incorporated company & a stay thereof is asked for on the ground that criminal proceedings are pending against directors of the co. on charges identical with those which might be based on the facts which may be disclosed in the civil action, but there is nothing alleged in the latter action to show that said directors are individually connected with or have a knowledge of the facts alleged in that action. Since said rule under the law of England was applicable where the prosecution was for a felony but not where it was for a misdemeanor, & the distinction between felonies & misdemeanors has been abolished with respect to offences against the Criminal Code, the rule does not apply where the offences disclosed by the civil action are offences under the Code or, if only common-law offences, are offences which could not at any time have been classified as felonies.—PORTER v. SOLLOWAY, MILLS & CO., LTD., [1930] 1 W. 130a. Yacht authorised to fly White Ensign.]—By the Dockyard Port of Dover Order in Council of June 10, 1912, Sched. 1, reg. 9, all vessels other than His Majesty's ships are forbidden to use the eastern entrance to the Admlty. Harbour between one hour after sunset & one hour before sunrise, without the special authority of the King's Harbour Master. While using the entrance during the prohibited hours without the authority of the King's Harbour Master pltf.'s yacht ran upon a wreck, which was said to have been unlighted at the time:—Held: the fact that a yacht of the Royal Yacht Squadron is authorised to fly the White Ensign does not confer upon her the status of one of His Majesty's ships within reg. 9.—H.M.S. 141b. Government not formally recognised.]—Pltfs., Esthonian subjects, the owners of two sailing vessels, with the approval & support of the Esthonian Govt., issued writs in rem claiming possession of the vessels, which had been requisitioned or sequestered by the Provisional Govt. of Northern Russia, & by them hired to a partnership assocn. for the purposes of trading, subject to the control of the director of naval transports. The Provisional Govt. entered appearances under protest, & motions were set down to set aside the writs & all subsequent proceedings on the grounds (inter alia) that the vessels were in the service of the Provisional Govt. & therefore immune from arrest; & that the dispute was between foreigners as to the possession of foreign ships, & therefore that, even if the ct. had jurisdiction, it should decline to exercise it. The judge invited the assistance of the Foreign Office as to the status of the Provisional Govt. of Northern Russia, & was informed by the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs that, while the Allied Powers were co-operating with the Provisional Govt. in the opposition which that Govt. was making to the forces of the Russian Soviet Govt., the Provisional Govt. had not been "formally recognised either by H.M. Govt. or by the Allied Powers as the Govt. of a sovereign independent State:—Held: (1) although under the control of an official of the Provisional Govt. the vessels were not in the possession or service of the Govt.; (2) even under the older decisions, the ct. in its discretion would entertain a possession suit between foreigners if the representative of the foreign State to which the vessel belonged requested the intervention of the ct.—THE ANNETTE, THE DORA, [1919] P. 105; 88 L. J. P. 107; 35 T. L. R. 288.

141c. —— Trading.]—A vessel owned or requisitioned by a sovereign independent State & earning freight for the State, is not deprived of the privilege, decreed by international comity, of immunity from the process of arrest, by reason of the fact that she is being employed in ordinary trading voyages carrying cargoes for private individuals.—THE PORTO ALEXANDRE, [1920] P. 30; 89 L. 141d. ——.]—While under requisition by, & manned & operated by, the United States Govt., defts.' steamship was in collision with & did damage to pltfs.' steamship. After the vessel had been released from requisition pltfs. commenced an action in rem for their collision damage. In that action defts. pleaded (inter alia) that "at the time when the collision is alleged to have taken place the Sylvan Arrow was under requisition by & under the sole control & management of the Govt. of the United States & was being navigated by persons who were the servants of the Govt. & for whose negligence defts. were & are in no wise responsible. . . . Defts. say that the action is not maintainable in rem by reason of the facts set out " above. On the hearing of this question as a preliminary point of law :—Held : defts. had surrendered their vessel to the United States Govt. under compulsion ; in no sense could it be said that the master & crew derived their authority from defts., & in the circumstances no maritime lien attached to the vessel by reason of the collision, & her owners were not, either through their vessel or otherwise, liable to pltfs.—THE SYLVAN ARROW, [1923] P. 220 ; 92 L. 142b. -.]—On a motion to set aside a writ in rem claiming possession of a vessel in the possession of the Esthonian Govt. the ct. invited the assistance of the Foreign Office as to the status of the Esthonian National Council. The A.-G. on behalf of the Foreign Office stated that His Majesty's Govt. had, for the time being, & with all necessary reservations as to the future, recognised the Esthonian National Council as a de facto independent body & had received an informal diplomatic representative of the Provisional Govt. :—Held : to permit the arrest of the vessel would be contrary to principles of international comity, as it would compel the Esthonian Govt., whose sovereignty was entitled to be respected, to submit to the jurisdiction of the British cts. ; & the writ & all subsequent proceedings must be set aside.—THE GAGARA, [1919] P. 95 ; 88 L. The Union of Socialist Soviet Republics entered an appearance under protest & moved to set the writ aside on the ground that the ship was the property of the Union, a recognised independent sovereign State :—Held : the issue of a writ in rem against a vessel in which a foreign sovereign State claimed an interest was in effect impleading the sovereign State, &, although the right of the sovereign State to possession of the vessel was in dispute, the ct. could not investigate the facts, & the writ must be set aside.—THE JUPITER, [1924] P. 236 ; 93 L. 147a. Owners liable though possession of vessel transferred—Ship requisitioned.]—A Greek steamship owned by defts., a Greek co., was requisitioned by the Greek Govt. during the war in 1922 between Greece & Turkey. Under the terms of requisition the possession or control of the vessel passed to the Greek Govt., & the master & crew ceased to be employed by defts. & were conscripted into the Greek forces. At the end of the period of requisition the vessel had to be returned to defts. in the same condition as at the beginning of the period. While under requisition the vessel stranded, & was saved from possible total loss by the services of pltfs.' salvage ship. After the vessel had been returned to her owners she was arrested by pltfs. in an action in rem :—Held : the terms of requisition did not dispossess defts. of their property in the vessel ; the services were of benefit to defts., as thereby they had their vessel instead of merely a claim against the Greek Govt. ; as the services were not those of the crew of the Greek vessel, it was immaterial that the crew were the servants of the Greek Govt., & defts. were liable to pltfs. for salvage.—THE MEANDROS, [1925] P. 61 ; 94 L. Her officers & crew were in the service & pay of that Govt., & at the time of the accident she was on a voyage in the interest of the Govt. of Indo-China :—Held : the I. could not be lawfully arrested. Semble : a sovereign State cannot be impleaded indirectly by proceedings in rem against its property. That immunity from arrest of a foreign state-owned ship is not affected by the vessel being used for trading purposes & as a cargo carrier, nor does it matter how the vessel is being employed.—BROWN, JR. v. S.S. 171a. ——.]—By a contract of sale made in London, an English co. on behalf of the Soviet Govt. purported to sell the J. to defts., an Italian co. The vessel had belonged to a Russian co., but the Soviet Govt. asserted that by a decree of nationalisation all vessels of the Russian mercantile marine had become State property, & that the co. had ceased to exist. The Russian co. had moved its business to France, & an action in rem was brought in its French name, & in the name of the persons appointed by the French cts. to administer its affairs, against "the J.," claiming possession. The Italian co. entered an appearance & moved to set aside the writ :—Held : (1) there is no established rule that the Admlty. Ct. will not entertain possession suits in respect of foreign vessels except at the request of both parties or with the consent of the accredited representative of the country to which the vessel belongs ; the matter is one for the discretion of the ct. ; (2) the proceedings did not implead the Soviet Govt. directly or indirectly ; (3) the question of authority to institute the action was a matter which should be referred to the judge at the trial ; (4) the motion to set aside the writ failed.—THE JUPITER (No. 2), [1925] P. 69 ; 94 L. Pltfs. brought an action in rem against the shipowners, claiming judgment for the validity of the mtges. & an order for sale of the vessel by the marshal. No appearance was entered by defts. & judgment was given condemning the vessel & ordering her sale. Thereupon the charterers intervened & claimed (a) a declaration that the charterparty was binding on the mtgees., who had notice of its existence when the mtges. were executed, & (b) an injunction to restrain pltfs. from exercising their right to an order for sale of the vessel except subject to the terms of the charterparty. The interveners also alleged that the mtges. were invalid :—Held : the interveners had no locus standi to dispute the validity of the mtges., but were only entitled to be heard on the question whether pltfs. ought to be restrained from exercising their rights in such a way as to interfere with the interveners' contractual rights under the charterparty.—THE LORD STRATHCONA, [1925] P. 143 ; 95 L. 518a. —— —— ——.]—In a collision between Swedish & British steamships, for which both ships were held to blame, a seaman on the former vessel was drowned. Under Swedish law the Swedish shipowners paid compensation to the relatives of the seaman. At the reference to assess the collision damage the Swedish shipowners claimed to recover from the owners of the British vessel a moiety of the compensation so paid. The registrar allowed the item. On appeal:—Held: the decision of the registrar was wrong for apart from Maritime Conventions Act, 1911 (c. 57), the Ct. of Admlty. had no jurisdiction to entertain an action in rem for loss of life, & the Admlty. rules as to division of loss had no application to such a claim, & sect. 3 of that Act, which provided for contribution between the owners of wrongdong vessels in respect of (inter alia) damages for loss of life or personal injuries, only applied to damages recoverable by action, & not to claims for compensation arising out of some statute & independently of fault on the part of the shipowner.—THE MOLIÈRE, [1925] P. 27; 94 L. 541a. —— —— —— Indorsee of document acknowledging receipt of goods for shipment.]—A document whereby the receipt of goods is acknowledged for shipment on board a named ship, or on some other ship for carriage by sea & delivery to the shipper's order, the document being signed on behalf of the master, is a bill of lading for the purposes of Bills of Lading Act, 1855 (c. 111), & the above sect.

Parcels of goods were accepted in N. for delivery at S. to the shippers' order, there being given to each shipper a document of the above-mentioned character. Upon the named ship arriving at S. the goods were not delivered. Resps., twenty firms, each being indorsees of one of the documents, issued a joint writ in rem claiming severally to recover damages. The writ stated that pltfs. claimed as consignees or indorsees of bills of lading for non-delivery of goods agreed to be carried by the named ship, or agreed to be shipped within a reasonable time by some other vessel of the same line. On affidavits sworn separately by pltfs., alleging that the goods were either lost or not shipped on any other vessel within a reasonable time, the ship was arrested. The owners of the ship took out a summons to set aside the writ & all proceedings thereunder:—Held: (1) the documents in question were bills of lading within the above sect., & the proceedings being to set aside the writ & it not being denied that some of the goods were received on board, the action should proceed; (2) the action being in rem & the joinder of pltfs. convenient, the view of the full Bench of the Supreme Ct. that pltfs. could properly be joined under the rules locally applicable should not be interfered with.—MARLBOROUGH HILL, SHIP v. COWAN & SONS, [1921] 1 A. Div. for damages for breach of the contract of carriage. Defts. were domiciled in England. On an application by them to transfer the cause to the King's Bench Div., the judge held that he had a discretion to retain it in the Admlty. (2) The note to R. S. 594a. —— —— Rival salvors—Injunction to restrain act on high seas.]—In 1922 pltfs. fitted out an expedition to salve cargo from the wreck of a Dutch steamship which had sunk in 1916 in the North Sea in over one hundred feet of water. Pltfs. worked at the scene of the wreck whenever the weather & tides permitted during the summer of 1922 & from Apr. to July, 1923. During that time they had succeeded in cutting a hole into No. 4 hold, had buoyed the wreck, & had extracted some portions of cargo of little value at a cost of over £40,000. In July, 1923, defts., British subjects & partners in a rival salvage co., arrived on the scene in a British registered ship, & by sending down their own divers & interfering with pltfs.' diving operations, tried to secure possession of the wreck & cargo, & either prevent further work on the part of pltfs. or establish themselves with pltfs. in concurrent occupation:—Held: (1) an action in respect of injurious acts done on the high seas had always been within the jurisdiction of the High Ct. of Admlty.; (2) pltfs. were sufficiently in occupation of the wreck to exclude third parties from interfering with the property; (3) as defts.' interference was high-handed & deliberate they would be restrained until further order from doing any acts at or near the wreck whereby pltfs. might be prevented or hindered in the carrying on of their salvage operations.—THE TUBANTIA, [1924] P. 78; 93 L. The contract did not purport to be made by or on behalf of the ship, but by the shippers, with pltfs., who claimed damages for breach of contract for non-delivery, & at their request a warrant to arrest the ship & her cargo was issued:—Held: (1) pltfs. not having been shown to be "the owners, or consignees or assignees" of the bill of lading of the cargo, the ct. had no jurisdiction in the matter, & the warrant of arrest should be set aside; (2) the contract referred to in the above sect. contemplated an obligation on the part of the ship, & the contract sued on imposed no such obligation.—LAVALLEE v. THE ISTAR, [1923] Exch. 648a. Ship not entitled to be registered as British ship—Ship under jurisdiction of Prize Court.] —A ship registered as a British ship, & nominally owned by a duly registered British co., was in fact owned & controlled by the Hamburg-Amerika Line, of Hamburg, which, in the person of its nominees, owned all the shares in the British co. & appointed its directors. Accordingly, after the outbreak of war with Germany, the ship was seized as prize, & on July 28, 1916, the Prize Ct. pronounced her to have belonged at the time of seizure to enemies of the Crown, & ordered her to be detained by the marshal until further order. Meanwhile on Jan. 11, 1916, under Prize Ct. Rules, Ord. 29, the ship had been requisitioned by the Lords Comrs. of the Admlty., & she remained in their possession. On Apr. 5, 1917, the writ in the present action was issued claiming a declaration under M. S. Acts, 1894 (c. 60), & 1906 (c. 48), that the ship was forfeited to the Crown on the ground that she was not entitled to be registered as a British ship :—Held : as the Lords Comrs. of the Admlty. had merely temporary possession of the ship & had to return her into the custody of the Prize Ct. which had at some time to make a final decree either of condemnation or release, the Admlty. Ct. had no jurisdiction to entertain the forfeiture action & to make the usual order for appraisement & sale, & the action must be dismissed.—THE ST. TUDNO, [1918] P. 174 ; 87 L. J. P. 105 ; 34 T. L. 663a. No jurisdiction—Judicature (Consolidation) Act, 1925 (c. 49), s. 22—Action for freight—Owner domiciled in England.]—Pltfs., shipowners domiciled in England, instituted an action in rem against cargo owners for freight in respect of the carriage of the cargo in the ship. By Judicature (Consolidation) Act, 1925 (c. 49), s. 22 (1) (a) (xii), the High Court shall in Admiralty matters have jurisdiction in respect of any claim arising out of an agreement relating to the carriage of goods in a ship, " unless it is shown to the ct. that at the time of the institution of the proceedings any owner or part owner of the ship was domiciled in England " :—Held : although under the sect. pltfs. who are British shipowners domiciled in this country are in a less favourable position than foreign shipowners, the sect. was general in its scope & could not be construed as applicable only to deft. shipowners against whom a claim is made, & the ct. had no jurisdiction to entertain the action.—THE ESKBRIDGE, [1931] P. 51 ; 100 L. 668a. —— Issue—Res not within jurisdiction.]— (1) It is not necessary that, at the time of the issue of a writ in rem, the res should be within the jurisdiction of the ct. ; & Maritime Conventions Act, 1911 (c. 57), s. 8, which provides that in the case of collision or salvage actions the proceedings must be commenced within two years of the cause

654 i. Exception to jurisdiction—Made after trial.]—An objection to the jurisdiction will hold good even if made after the trial.—STACK v. THE BARGE LEOPOLD (1919), 18 Exch. C. R. 325.—CAN.

PART III. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 1.—A. (a).

668 i. —— Amendment—Increase of amount.]—Pltfs. claimed $4,000 damages, by reason of a collision between one of their barges & the B. The B. was arrested & the bail fixed at $4,000, of action, is complied with if the writ is issued within two years; the sect. does not contemplate that the arrest of the res constitutes the commencement of the proceedings.

(2) In general, the ct. will not grant an extension of time for the renewal of an unserved writ, which has not been renewed within the period of one year as provided by R. S. C., Ord. 8, r. 1, if, but for the extension of time, the claim would be barred by a statute of limitation. But, inasmuch as Maritime Conventions Act, 1911 (c. 57), s. 8, contains provisos for extension of time unknown to any other statutes of limitation, the application to renew a writ in an action which comes within the operation of sect. 8 must be considered on its merits, & if, under the circumstances, the ct. would give leave to issue a writ notwithstanding the lapse of two years, the ct. will allow an extension of time for the renewal of a writ, the time for the renewal of which has expired.—THE ESPANOLETO, [1920] P. 223; 90 L. J. P. 32; 125 L. T. 121; 36 T. L. R. 554; 15 Asp. M. L. C. 287.

668b. —— Motion to set aside—Facts in dispute.]—In an action in rem for damage by collision defts. moved to set aside the writ & all subsequent proceedings on the ground that their vessel at the time of the collision was under requisition to, & in the sole control & possession of, the United States Navy Department, & that accordingly no maritime lien attached to her. Pltfs. did not admit the facts set out in defts.' affidavit in support of the motion:—Held: the facts being in dispute the ct. could not try the issue on motion by affidavit & the motion must be dismissed, but without prejudice to the right of defts. to apply, when the issues were defined by pleadings, for the question of law to be tried as a preliminary point.—THE SYLVAN ARROW, [1923] P. 14; 92 L. J. P. 23; 128 L. T. 448; 39 T. L. R. 25; 16 Asp. M. L. C. 115.

672a. Defendant blaming another ship.]—Pltfs. claimed damages from defts., owners of the W., in respect of a collision between the W. & barges belonging to pltfs. The owners of the W. denied liability, alleging by letter to pltfs. that the collision was caused by the negligence of the A. An action was commenced between the owners of the W. & the owners of the A., in which the owners of the A. admitted liability for the collision. The owners of the A. agreed pltfs.' damages, but refused to pay the costs of the action by pltfs. against the W., which had then been prosecuted to the stage of filing pltfs.' preliminary act:—Held: pltfs. were entitled to amend their writ by adding the owners of the A. as defts. The case came within the principle of R. S. C., Ord. 16, r. 11, that no cause should be defeated by the non-joinder of parties, & in the circumstances it would have been a misuse of the discretion of the ct. to refuse to allow a party to exercise that right. The proper course would have been for pltfs. to have added both parties as defts. in the alternative.—THE W. H. RANDALL, [1928] P. 41; 97 L. J. P. 42; 138 L. T. 459; 17 Asp. M. L. C. 397, C. A.

700b. —— Ship seized under writ of fieri facias.]—A foreign ship was seized under a sheriff's writ of fi. fa. in execution of a judgment obtained by the charterers of the ship against the owners of fifty-six sixty-fourth shares in the ship. Subsequently the ship was arrested by the Admlty. marshal in an action in rem for necessaries. Various other writs in rem were issued against the ship, including a writ by the master in respect of wages. The sheriff was unable to effect a sale, & the ship was sold by the marshal without prejudice to the rights of the various claimants:—Held: the fact that the sheriff was in possession did not deprive the marshal of his power to arrest the ship in actions in rem.—THE JAMES W. ELWELL, [1921] P. 351; 90 L. J. P. 132; 37 T. L. R. 178.

the then estimated cost of repairs. Before the trial of the action, it was found that the actual cost of the repairs amounted to $5,512.94. 673 i. Parties—Joinder of plaintiffs—After judgment.]—In the course of a trial in the Admlty. Ct. pltf. was allowed to amend by adding a party pltf., but failed to amend formally pursuant to the order & entered the formal judgment with only the original pltf. named therein, & proceeded to assess damages before the registrar:—Held: in the circumstances pltf. had not elected to abandon the order for amendment & should be allowed to have the judgment & prior proceedings amended in accordance therewith.—EVANS, COLEMAN & EVANS, LTD. v. THE ROMAN PRINCE, [1924] 3 D. PART III. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 2.—A. (a).

701 iii. —— Creditor's action—Claim for building, equipping or repairing.]—As soon as a creditor finds a ship under arrest of the ct., he may bring his action for, & the Admlty Ct. acquires immediate & irrevocable jurisdiction over, any claim for building, equipping or repairing the ship. That jurisdiction is established without the litigant having to show that the original action under which the ship was arrested must eventually succeed, & notwithstanding that the arrest was made without particulars being given 706a. Re-arrest—Damage in excess of bail—Second action—Right to bring action in personam.]—In an action in rem in respect of damage by collision defts. gave bail in the sum of £100,000 as representing the full value of their vessel & the limit of their liability according to French law. In the Admlty. Ct. both pltfs.' & defts.' vessels were held to blame, but the Ct. of Appeal held defts.' vessel alone to blame & this decision was upheld by the House of Lords. The £100,000 being insufficient to satisfy pltfs.' judgment, pltfs. who admitted that quâ damages they could not recover more than the £100,000, threatened to arrest defts.' vessel in respect of interest & costs; & under protest, defts. provided bail in a further sum to avoid arrest:—Held: having received bail in the full value of defts.' vessel, pltfs. could not arrest her in rem, but could proceed in personam, & were entitled to a declaration that the amounts due in respect of interest & costs were enforceable by seizure & sale of the vessel by a sheriff under a writ of fi. fa.—THE JOANNIS VATIS (No. 2), [1922] P. 213; 91 L. 706b. —— ——.]—In a damage action in rem pltfs. demanded & obtained bail from defts. in the sum of £3,500. After judgment had been given pronouncing defts.' ship alone to blame, pltfs. demanded further bail in the sum of £3,000, on the ground that the original sum demanded was insufficient to cover their damages. On the refusal of defts.' solrs. to give an undertaking to provide additional bail, pltfs. extracted a warrant of arrest from the Admlty. registry under which defts.' ship was arrested. On a motion to set aside the warrant of arrest:—Held: the effect of taking bail was to release the ship altogether, & the warrant of arrest must be set aside.—THE POINT BREEZE, [1928] P. 135; 97 L. Before the trial of the action, it was found that the actual cost of the repairs amounted to $5,512.94. Pltfs. moved to amend their writ by adding to the amount claimed & for the issue of a warrant to re-arrest the B.:—Held: the ct. might direct measures to be taken to do full justice to pltfs., & to that end permit the issue of a warrant for the re-arrest of the ship, but with costs of the motion & of the re-arrest against pltfs.—HALL COAL CO. v. THE BAYUSONA, [1923] Exch. 706a iii. —— —— Dismissal of claim for salvage—Appeal.]—Where a claim for salvage against a ship has been dismissed, there is no general right, in case of appeal, to hold the bail bond or after its cancellation to re-arrest the ship, nor will such right be granted without good reason therefor, such as that it appears to the ct. that the ship will not be within the jurisdiction to answer the appeal should it go against it.—THE FREIYA v. THE R. His independent claim for wages as a "ship's carpenter on board the ship," was in fact only a part of his firm's claim, & immediately after the ship was arrested his firm's action was instituted:—Held: these facts so obviously disclosed mala fides & an abuse of the process of the ct. that the arrest could be viewed as a sham proceeding & as not having any legal existence as regards the firm, but other claimants could support their suits on its existence in fact, because in good faith they instituted their suits relying upon the records of the ct. which on their face showed that its jurisdiction could be invoked.—ERIKSEN BROTHERS v. THE MAPLE LEAF, [1923] 4 D. (2) The general rule is that an appraisement by the marshal is conclusive, & it is only in very exceptional cases that an application to vary or set aside the appraisement will be allowed.—THE SAN ONOFRE, [1917] P. 96; 86 L. J. P. 103; 116 L. T. 800; 14 Asp. M. L. C. 74.

781b. Undertaking to put in bail—Afterwards withdrawn—Effect of subsequent arrest of vessel.] —On June 22, 1920, defts.' solrs. gave an undertaking to enter an appearance & put in bail in respect of a writ in rem claiming damages in respect of loss by collision. In consequence defts.' vessel was not arrested. On Feb. 17, 1921, defts.' solrs. wrote to pltfs.' solrs. that their clients were unable to make arrangements for bail, that accordingly the undertaking for bail was withdrawn, & that, as the vessel was within the jurisdiction of the ct., pltfs. could arrest her. Pltfs.' solrs. arrested the vessel, but wrote to defts.' solrs. that they reserved all their clients' rights under the undertaking for bail. On Mar. 16, 1921, the vessel was appraised as being at that time of a value of £600. Defts. provided bail in that sum & the vessel was released. On Apr. 12, pltfs. applied for an order that defts.' solrs. should forthwith provide good & sufficient bail, pursuant to their undertaking. It appeared that in June, 1920, the value of the vessel was much in excess of £600, & pltfs. estimated her value at £4,500:—Held: (1) the undertaking to give bail could not be withdrawn by substituting the vessel for the bail; (2) pltfs. had not waived their rights under the undertaking by arresting the vessel; (3) defts.' solrs. must complete their undertaking by putting in bail to the value of the vessel as on June 22, 1920; (4) nature of bail discussed.—THE BORRE, [1921] P. 390; 91 L. No writ was issued, the ship left the jurisdiction, & when she returned several months later she was encumbered with liens. On Jan. 6, 1931, she was sold by order of the ct. On Mar. 2 the solrs. took out an originating summons, & moved the ct. for an order that they were no longer bound by their undertaking. On Mar. 14 the cargo owners issued their writ in rem, but the solrs. refused to accept service pending the hearing of the motion:—Held: the undertaking, which was plain in its terms, enabled the ship to leave the jurisdiction without being arrested, & the fact that she was subsequently sold was immaterial; there had not been undue delay in issuing the writ having regard to all the circumstances; & the solrs. remained bound by their undertaking.—THE RING, [1931] P. 58; 100 L. 781f. Benefit of bail—Action in name of cargo owners—Some owners not joining in proceedings.]—The steamships W. & J. came into collision & the W. & her cargo were damaged. Before the issue of the writ an undertaking to put in bail to the amount of £100,000, had been given on behalf of the owners of the J. The writ was in the names of "The owners of the steamship W. & cargo v. the owners of the steamship J.," but at that time no authority from any of the cargo owners had been received. While the litigation was proceeding the owners of the W. asked the various underwriters on the cargo, subrogated to the rights of the respective cargo owners, to join in the proceedings or share in the costs. Some assented & some declined. The litigation proceeded to the House of Lords, where the J. was held alone to blame. The sum of £100,000 being insufficient to satisfy all the claims, the owners of the W. contended that having sued as owners of the ship & bailees of the cargo they were entitled to receive the whole of the bail for which the undertaking had been given, pay themselves the amount of their own damage as shipowners in priority to all other claimants, & that the non-assenting cargo owners had no right to share in the fund :—Held : (1) although, as bailees of the cargo, the shipowners were entitled to recover the full value of the damage to the cargo, represented by the bail, they must account to all the owners of the damaged parcels of cargo for their share ; (2) it was the duty of the ct., when the bail was recovered, to see that all persons having a claim on the fund, including the non-assenting cargo owners, shared in the distribution.—THE JOANNIS VATIS, [1922] P. 92 ; 91 L. 731g. —— Several salvage actions.]—A vessel which had stranded on rocks & sustained heavy damage got off with the assistance of various salvors & was placed in dock for temporary repairs. In respect of these services various salvage actions & an action by the ship repairers for salvage &/or necessaries were instituted. No defence was put in, but in the first action an appearance was entered & an undertaking given to put in bail for ship, cargo & freight in the sum of £1,000. The cargo & freight were valued at £327. Before the other actions were instituted the cargo had been landed & dispersed. After some temporary repairs had been effected the vessel was sold by the marshal. She only realised £889 :—Held : the bail for cargo & freight did not constitute a fund in which all the salvors could share ; the undertaking was given in one action only, & pltfs. in that action, in which the total values were £1,217, could treat $\frac{327}{1217}$ of £1,000 as bail representing the cargo & freight.—THE RUSSLAND, [1924] P. 55 ; 93 L. 781h. Amount of bail—Value of ship & freight—Limit of liability—Facts disputed by plaintiffs.] — If, in an action of damage by collision, the amount for which the action is brought exceeds the statutory limit provided by M. S. Act, 1894 (c. 60), s. 503, deft. shipowners on filing an affidavit in the damage action stating the tonnage of their ship & that the collision happened without their actual fault or privity, will, if these facts are not denied by pltf. shipowners, be entitled to have the ship released on bail being given to an amount sufficient to cover the statutory limit, together with interest & costs. But if pltfs. dispute the facts on which the right to limit liability depends, bail must be given to the full value of defts.' ship.—THE CHARLOTTE, [1920] P. 78 ; 89 L. J. P. 62 ; 123 L. 894a. Action between parties whose vessels have not been in collision with each other.] Where the parties to a damage action are the owners of vessels which have not been in collision with each other the practice as to requiring preliminary acts under R. S. C., Ord. 19, r. 28, is a matter for the discretion of the ct. In such cases the proper course is that there should be the communication between the solrs. which commonly takes place in admlty. cases, & that the solrs. should ascertain whether the parties are ready to file preliminary acts under Ord. 19, r. 28. If both parties are not ready to deliver preliminary acts, or one of them declares himself unable or unwilling, then the matter should be raised by summons. If in such a case an order is made for preliminary acts to be filed, such order is not properly complied with by the party whose vessel has not been in collision filing a blank preliminary act.— THE EL OSO (1925), 133 L. 894b. Who entitled to — Co-defendant.] — A collision took place between the C. & the B., & subsequently the C. collided with pltfs.' vessel. Pltfs. issued a writ in rem against the owners of the C., & the usual preliminary acts were filed by both parties. In their defence the owners of the C. blamed the B., & pltfs. added the owners of the B. as second defts. Thereupon the owners of the C. obtained an order that the owners of the B. should forthwith file a preliminary act :— Held : (1) the only parties entitled as against second defts. to a preliminary act were pltfs., & they would be so entitled when they had filed a preliminary act against second defts. ; first defts. were not entitled to require second defts. to file a preliminary act unless they chose to become pltfs. & issue a writ against second defts., & the order must be set aside ; (2) if it were a matter of discretion, the guiding principle, that of mutuality, would be infringed by the order made, as second defts. would be bound by a preliminary act which they had filed, & the parties at whose instance it had been filed would not be bound, as against second defts., by the judgment in the present action.—THE CARLSTON. 979b. -.]—I had occasion, recently, when trying a salvage action in which there had been a tender, to express my view that the fact that the amount of the tender was made known to the ct. before it had determined its award hampered the ct. in its judicial capacity ; & that it was better, if a tender were made, that the amount of the tender should not be made known to the ct. until it had exercised its judicial discretion in arriving at what would be a reasonable sum to award, because the question of costs, a serious one, depends upon whether the amount of the award is or is not in excess of the tender. . . . Having expressed my view as to what I thought to be advisable, namely, that the amount should not be stated in the defence, the case of the U. C. has arisen, a salvage case, & is now before me on summons ; & I thought it desirable, in view of what has taken place, that my view upon this question should be stated publicly, so that it might be recorded for the information of all concerned. I have thought it right, as I have suggested a variation of what has apparently been the custom & practice of this ct., to speak to the President about it, & he agreed with my view of the case, that putting the amount into the defence in a salvage action was embarrassing to the judge. Upon inquiry, however, it appears that this is such a very old practice, that in the President's view it is not advisable to alter it. The result is that I make no alteration in the existing practice, & dismiss the appeal summons (BARGRAVE DEANE, J.).—THE UPTON CASTLE, [1912] W. N. 84.

Claims against the fund were in due course filed by the owners of the N. & the owners of the other ship, the S., & also by the owners of cargo on the S. The same solrs. presented the claims on behalf of the owners of both ships. The owners of cargo on the S., who were not parties to the collision action, then sought leave to administer four interrogatories to the owners of the S. Nos. 1 & 2 asked whether there had been, as between the owners of the two ships, a mutual abandonment of claim or a settlement on other terms. No. 3 inquired whether there had been any assignment of the claim of the owners, master, & crew of the S. ; & No. 4 asked by whom the particular solrs. were instructed to present the claim of the owners of the S. The registrar allowed Nos. 1 & 2, but disallowed Nos. 3 & 4. The defence was delivered on Mar. 17, when deft. paid into ct. $2,000 & tendered it to pltf., who rejected it. Pltf. at the trial applied for leave to amend to set up an additional claim. The amendment was made, & deft. increased his tender to $4,000, which was accepted : —Held : (1) deft. should in any event have the costs of & consequent upon the amendment granted at the trial ; (2) as to the accepted tender, the increased tender must be regarded as having been made & accepted on Mar. 17, & all the costs subsequent to that tender should be borne by pltf. ; (3) the circumstances were not quite sufficient to deprive pltf. of costs before tender.—THE PASCHENA v. THE GRIFF, [1925] 2 W. They also pleaded certain soundings which differed from those pleaded by certain of pltfs. Pltfs. by their reply joined issue upon the defence save in so far as the same consisted of admissions:—Held: pltfs. were entitled to put in the logs of defts.' vessel with a view to proving that the ship was in real danger, & also a graphic representation of the soundings based on sketches in defts.' log, but not to call evidence as to the facts, e.g. the displacement of certain tugs.—THE WOODARRA (1921), 38 T. 1185a. —— Photographs — Calculation as to locality of collision—Absence of expert evidence.]—In an action arising out of a collision in Sydney harbour between the ships C. & St. A., there were in evidence three photographs, taken from a third moving ship, showing the colliding ships just before. during, & after the collision, with the frontage of the harbour as background. The point in the harbour at which collision occurred was material. The trial judge, basing his judgment solely upon the other evidence in the case, held that the St. A. was to blame. The appellate ct. gave the owners of that ship leave to adduce upon an appeal by them the evidence of three land surveyors based upon the photographs. They used the alignment of pairs of objects which they identified in the backgrounds to fix the position of the camera when each photograph was taken, & then by reference to the background localised the collision. These results were shown by a diagram. The appellate ct., accepting the result so arrived at, reversed the decision of the trial judge, stating, however, that apart from the new evidence they agreed with it:—Held: the skill or science needed to produce an accurate result by the process adopted was not that of a land surveyor, & in the absence of expert evidence the reversal of the decision of the trial judge was not warranted.—UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD v. THE ST. 1196 iii. —— ——.]—Two ships collided on a very bad night. The collision was caused by the M., which was light, dragging her anchors, & coming down on the R., which was holding to her moorings. When the M. was dragging her anchors she had steam up but did not use it, by which failure she omitted to take a reasonable measure which might have avoided the accident. In an action for damages by the R. against the M. there was uncontradicted evidence to the effect that the steam had not been used because those in charge of the M. did not & could not know owing to the darkness & the weather that they were dragging their anchors. The Lord Ordinary, without expressing any opinion as to whether he credited that evidence or not, accepted an opinion expressed by the nautical assessor to the effect that it would not have been difficult for those on the M. to know that they were dragging their anchors: —Held: it was for the Lord Ordinary & not for the nautical assessor to pronounce upon the trustworthiness of that evidence, & to say whether or not the master of the M. ought to have known when his anchor began to drag, &, on the ground that the evidence did not establish the fault, the M. assoilzied.—CAMBO SHIPPING CO., LTD. Thereupon certain charterers, to whom the mtgors. had chartered the ship for a term of years, intervened, claiming a declaration that the charterparty was binding on the mtgees.; & by an order of Mar. 3 the sale of the ship stood over pending the trial of the issue, upon the interveners giving security in an amount satisfactory to the registrar for loss arising from delay & any loss on sale due to a fall in shipping values. evidence, & to allow them reasonable compensation for their detention, it is a question for the taxing master whether a party who seeks to charge his opponent with the cost of detaining an expensive witness has acted reasonably in incurring the expense or whether he ought not to have examined the witness on commission.

A taxing master should bear in mind that a witness duly summoned is bound to attend, & the witness is not entitled to receive, as the measure of his compensation, the exact sum he may prove he has lost by reason of the detention. He is, however, entitled to some compensation, & not merely to the conduct money given him with his subpœna; & the wages he is earning may afford an important indication of what is fair compensation. But although this is correct in the case of seamen, as regards captains & other officers, as in the case of professional witnesses, their earnings cannot be taken as a fair criterion on which to base the allowance.—THE IBIS VI, [1921] P. 255; 90 L. 1520b. —— ——.]—The mate of pltfs.' fishing vessel, through being detained ashore for twenty-five days to give evidence at the trial of a collision action, was prevented from sailing on a voyage on which he would have earned £280 as his share of the catch. Pltfs., who were successful in the action, paid the witness the £280, &, on taxation, the assistant-registrar allowed the item in pltfs.' bill of costs as chargeable against defts. Defts. appealed, & the matter ultimately went to the Ct. of Appeal, which laid down certain guiding principles as to allowances to witnesses & sent the case back for reassessment. On reconsideration the assistant-registrar allowed the sum of £250, & defts. again appealed:—Held: the assistant-registrar had properly applied the directions given by LORD STERNDALE, M.R., in which WARRINGTON, L.J., concurred, namely, that the amount to be awarded should be "the reasonable compensation to a person of the class of the witness, taking into account all the circumstances & considering the wages which the witness was earning about the time of detention not as an absolute measure, but an important indication & guide of what is fair. The fact that all persons are under an obligation to give evidence when called upon should also not be ignored." The appeal therefore failed.—THE IBIS VI (No. 2), [1922] P. 4; 91 L. J. P. 44; 126 L. 1521a. Costs of obtaining statements from independent witnesses—Discontinuance of action.]—In a collision action, before pltfs. had filed their preliminary act or statement of claim, defts. took statements from independent witnesses on other vessels. Pltfs. shortly afterwards discontinued the action. On the taxation of defts.' bill of costs the assistant registrar disallowed the costs of obtaining these statements, on the ground that there was "a well-settled principle of taxation that a party is only entitled as against his opponent to incur such costs or expenses as will enable him to conduct his case at the stage which the proceedings have reached, & not incur expenses in anticipation of matter, which, as events turn out, never arise":—Held: R. S. C., Ord. 65, r. 27 (29), was not limited in the way stated by the assistant registrar; if solrs. could compel the discontinuance of an action by collecting the necessary evidence, they were entitled to do so, & the costs in question were not prematurely incurred, & defts. were entitled to recover them from pltfs. on taxation.—THE CHANNEL QUEEN, [1928] P. 157; 97 L. 1521b. Fee of average adjusters — Numerous claims.]—On a reference to assess damages arising out of a collision, the claims of cargo owners against the fund paid into ct. by the owners of the wrongdoing ship, who had limited their liability, were presented to the registrar in the form of an average statement. On taxation, a fee of £1,000 was allowed to the average adjusters in respect of the preparation of the claims. On a summons to review this item:—Held: where, as in the present case, there were a number of claims to be dealt with, an average statement was a method of proof to which there was no objection in principle, involving as it did less expense than would be incurred in the preparation of many affidavits or in calling a number of witnesses from overseas; it was irrevelant that the claimants had employed the same adjusters to prepare their claims in general average against underwriters; & the fee of £1,000 was rightly allowed.—THE NORMANSTAR, [1929] P. 283; 98 L. 1551a. —— Unascertained liability — Right of plaintiffs in limitation suit to claim against fund.]—In Feb. 1917, two Norwegian vessels, the C. & the O., came into collision & the C. sank. In Mar. 1917, the owners of the cargo laden on board the C. began an action against the owners of the O. in the Admlty. Ct. The action was heard in May, 1919, when both vessels were pronounced to blame, & accordingly it was adjudged that pltfs. were entitled to receive a moiety of the amount of their damage from defts. Thereupon defts., the owners of the O., commenced a limitation action against the owners of the C., the owners of her cargo, & all persons claiming to have received damage by reason of the collision. This action was heard in Feb. 1920, when a decree was pronounced limiting the liability of the owners of the O. to £8 per ton on the registered tonnage of the O. calculated in accordance with M. S. Act, 1894 (c. 60). The decree provided that all claims were to be brought in within three months & that claims not so brought in would be excluded from sharing in the limitation fund. Claims were filed by the owners of the cargo on the C., but although the owners of the C. entered an appearance they took no further steps in the limitation proceedings. Meanwhile, however, in Feb. 1919, the owners of the C. had commenced an action in Norway against the owners of the O. & in June, 1920, when the reference was held in the limitation proceedings & the registrar made his report, the trial of the Norwegian action was still pending. The owners of the O. accordingly took out a summons asking that the report be not confirmed & that they might have leave to file a claim against the fund in respect of any liability they might incur under the Norwegian proceedings. The judge declined to postpone the distribution of the fund & dismissed the summons. Pltfs., the owners of the O., appealed :—Held : (1) pltfs. had no absolute right under the limitation sects. of M. S. Act, 1894 (c. 60), to have the distribution of the fund stayed & to bring forward a claim when ascertained ; (2) limitation proceedings do not contemplate claims by pltfs., & the owners of the O. could not file a claim against the fund in their own right ; (3) had an application been made in proper form the ct. would have had a discretion to extend the time before distributing the fund, in order to allow pltfs. to ascertain their liability under the pending Norwegian judgment & to apply to the ct. to adjust the distribution of the fund so that pltfs. might obtain credit for the amount payable under the Norwegian judgment; but, having regard to the lapse of time & to the fact that limitation proceedings contemplate that claims shall be brought in promptly & the distribution of the fund not be unreasonably delayed, the ct. had rightly exercised its discretion in refusing to postpone the distribution of the fund.—THE KRONPRINZ OLAV, [1921] P. 52 ; 90 L. The notice contained no other statement of the questions intended to be raised, & no charges were specifically formulated against the master before or at the inquiry that he was in fault in connection with any of the matters on which he was examined. The ct. found the master guilty of an error of judgment in taking wrong helm action & in failing to stop & take soundings, & suspended his certificate for three months. The ct. found the master guilty of negligence & severely censured him, but did not deem it necessary to deal with his certificate. The master served notice of appeal on the Board of Trade, but the Board took the view that no appeal lay unless the officer's certificate had been suspended or cancelled. A motion to determine, as a preliminary point, the question of the right to appeal was decided by the Div. Ct. in the master's favour, & at the subsequent hearing of the appeal the master was held not to have been guilty of the acts of negligence attributed to him :—Held : (1) as a matter of principle, as the Board of Trade had not ordered the inquiry, & merely appeared on the appeal in discharge of a public duty, costs ought not to be awarded against the Board; (2) the question of the right to appeal, contested by the Board, raised a matter of public interest, & the master was entitled to the costs of the preliminary motion.—THE ROYAL STAR (No. 2), [1928] P. 144; 97 L. Pltf., an accountant, told deft. that he could introduce a probable purchaser, & would do so if deft. would pay pltf. half the commission payable by the owner of the property to deft. in the event of a sale being effected. Deft. agreed, & on the same day pltf. introduced B. to deft. with whom a sale was arranged. Pltf. in his evidence stated that he was not a land agent, & for the preceding five years had had no transactions for the sale of land except the one in question:—Held: the arrangement between the parties was not one of a series nor the commencement of a series of transactions, but a solitary transaction, & pltf. was not a land agent within the above Act.—COOKE v. WALLACE (1914), 33 N. 164a. Counsel — Signing pleadings.] — B., the owner of freehold premises, agreed to sell them to E., but there was no memorandum in writing to satisfy Stat. Frauds. B. then agreed to sell the premises to G., & a valid contract was executed, which B. did not perform. G. brought an action for specific performance against B., who by her defence signed by counsel pleaded the contract with E. in terms that made the pleading a valid memorandum within the statute. G. added E. as a deft. to the action; & E., by a counterclaim, claimed specific performance of his agreement :—Held : counsel was the duly authorised agent of B. to sign the pleading & to plead the contract with E., & although the signing of a memorandum within Stat. Frauds was not in the minds of either counsel or client, the pleading, as signed by counsel before E. was a party to the action, was a valid memorandum to satisfy the statute, & E. was entitled to judgment on his counterclaim, & G.'s action against B. must be dismissed.—GRINDELL v. BASS, [1920] 2 Ch. 487; 89 L. N. & B. got into difficulties, & were unable to meet their obligations as they became due owing to overtrading, but they claimed to be still solvent. At a meeting of the trade creditors it was agreed that a committee of inspection should be appointed & that N. & B. should execute a deed of inspectorship. The deed, which was executed on May 6, 1928, was in the usual form, & in all material particulars the same as that considered by the ct. in Easterbrook v. Barker, No. 188. By the deed N. & B., the debtors, in consideration of a release of their indebtedness to the assenting creditors, assigned their real & personal estates to C. as inspector upon trust to allow N. & B. " henceforth to manage & carry on their said business " subject to the covenants & conditions of the deed. N. & B. undertook to carry on the business or wind it up as the inspector & committee should think best. In a circular which was sent out by C., the inspector, on Sept. 10, 1928, announcing that the deed of inspectorship had been executed, it was stated that " all orders for goods required for the purpose of carrying on the business will be issued on my official order forms in the usual way & will be paid for by me." The inspector & the committee of inspection left the conduct of the business subsequent to the execution of the deed of inspectorship to N. & B. Pltfs. brought an action by which they claimed royalties upon wireless sets constructed & sold by N. & B. since Sept. 6, 1928. The action was brought against N. & B. & also against the inspector & the members of the committee of inspection personally :—Held : N. & B. did not become the agents of the inspector or of the committee to carry on the business, but the business remained the business of N. & B., & therefore pltfs.' claim for royalties against the inspector & committee of inspection failed.—MARCONI'S WIRELESS TELEGRAPH CO., LTD. v. NEWMAN, [1930] 2 K. SECT. 4.—AGENCY OF NECESSITY (Vol. I., p. 293).

For "See HUSBAND & WIFE; SHIPPING & NAVIGATION," substitute as follows :—

215a. Extent of doctrine.]—An agency of necessity can arise in other cases than that of carriers by land or sea or the acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer Extraordinary circumstances, such as war conditions, which make it impossible for a buyer of goods on behalf of a principal abroad either to despatch them or to communicate with him, would entitle the buyer to sell the goods as an agent of necessity. But in order to establish an agency of necessity the agent must prove that there was an actual & definite commercial necessity for the sale, & that the transaction was bonâ fide in the interest of the principal.

Where an agent in London bought skins in 1915 & 1916 to be forwarded to his principal in Roumania as the principal might direct, & in consequence of the occupation of Roumania by the Germans in 1916, the agent was unable to send the skins to his principal or communicate with him, & the agent thereupon sold the skins without authority :—

Held : the agent had failed to establish agency of necessity because (a) the deterioration of the furs might have been prevented by putting them in cold storage at a comparatively small expense, &, moreover, they had steadily increased in value, & (b) the agent had not acted bonâ fide in selling the skins.—PRAGER v. BLATSPIEL, STAMP & HEACOCK, LTD., [1924] 1 K. 277 v. —— bare power of attorney to make & indorse notes, cheques, etc., does not authorise the attorney to raise loans on his principal's credit for the principal himself or for the attorney's own accommodation or for a third party: nor is such authority conferred by a general power given the attorney to do all "other acts & things for the purpose of carrying on any business in my name." 296a. —— —— Property held on trust for sale.]—The two pltfs. having, as joint tenants, bought land which by Law of Property Act, 1925 (c. 20), s. 36, became vested in them on the statutory trusts for sale, agreed to sell it to deft., & the conveyance was executed by one pltf. in person & by an attorney on behalf of the other pltf. The power of attorney was expressed to give " the sole & absolute control of all my property real & personal of every description situate & being at Bury & elsewhere in the County of Lancaster & whether owned by me solely or jointly with any other person or persons." Deft. declined to accept the conveyance on the ground that a trustee for sale could not delegate the execution of the trust to his attorney. In an action for specific performance :—Held : the words used in the power of attorney applied only to property held in beneficial ownership & not to property held on a trust for sale, & the action failed.—GREEN v. WHITEHEAD, [1930] 1 Ch. 38 ; 99 L. 300a. Effect of notice that powers exceeded.]—A power of attorney contained a provision that " the principal ratifies & confirms & agrees to ratify & confirm whatsoever the attorney shall do or purports to do by virtue of these presents " :—Held : this provision did not preclude the principal from objecting to a dealing with his property by a person who had notice in ordinary circumstances that the agent was exceeding his authority, actual & ostensible.—MIDLAND BANK, LTD. v. RECKITT (1932), 48 T. 332a. —— ——.]—Pltf. gave a power of attorney to T. & authorised him, in relation to pltf.'s affairs, to draw cheques on pltf.'s account at the bank without restriction. T. in fraud of pltf. drew a cheque on pltf.'s account, in favour of defts. in part-payment for a motor-car which T. had obtained from them for his own purposes on the hire-purchase system. Defts. knew that the cheque was drawn by T. as agent for pltf. In an action by pltf. to recover from defts. the proceeds of the cheque :—Held : as defts. knew that T. was paying his own debt

these cheques being made by the latter for fixed amounts corresponding to the invoices. Afterwards, through fraudulent devices, H., having succeeded in passing entries for much smaller sums than the quantity of goods required, induced the Customs House cashier to take the cheques thus issued by applt. co. for a higher amount than the one apparently due, & either to apply the surplus in payment of duties owing by third parties or to reimburse him in cash :—Held : (1) it was within the scope of the power of attorney given to H by applt. co. that he should receive, in cash from the custom officials, balances of cheques delivered by him to them, after deducting the duties payable in respect of entries made by H. on behalf of applt. co. ; (2) it was not within the scope of the power of attorney that he should direct the application of balances of applt. co.'s cheques in payment of duties owing by H.'s other customers.—CANADIAN PACIFIC RY. T. was also acting as solr. for deft. & obtained from her a cheque for nearly £5,000 for the discharge of certain liabilities of which T. had informed her. At that time deft.'s banking account was, though deft. was not aware of it, about £1,500 short of the amount of the cheque & T. drew a bearer cheque for £1,500 on pltf.'s account & paid it into deft.'s account, the cheque showing on its face that it was drawn by T. as attorney for pltf. T. was thus enabled to cash deft.'s cheque. Pltf., on ascertaining the facts, brought this action against deft. for a declaration that he was entitled to recover from her the proceeds of the £1,500 cheque:—Held: as deft.'s bank had notice on the face of the £1,500 cheque that it represented money belonging to pltf., & as they had received it as agents for deft. & had credited it to her account, pltf. was entitled to succeed.—RECKITT v. NUNBURNHOLME (1929), 45 T. 338a. Authority to sign for business purposes.]—Resps. had two accounts with applt. bank at Sydney in connection with a business which they there carried on. They informed the bank in writing that the two managers of their business had authority together to sign & indorse cheques, to draw & indorse promissory notes & bills of exchange, & to transact on their behalf all business connected with the accounts. Banks in Australia frequently issue to a customer, in exchange for a cheque in favour of the bank, a cheque, described as a "bank cheque," drawn by the bank on itself in favour of a person designated by him, or to bearer. In exchange for cheques drawn in favour of applt. bank by the managers, the bank issued to one of the managers bank cheques payable to a name designated by him; these cheques he fraudulently appropriated:—Held: applt. bank was not entitled to debit the bank cheques against resps. The manager had not implied authority to receive bank cheques, & the circumstances in which on certain previous occasions the manager had been allowed to give instructions as to the application of the amount of cheques drawn, made the evidence fall far short of the strong case needed to show an ostensible authority prevailing over written instructions.—AUSTRALIAN BANK OF COMMERCE v. PEREL, [1926] A. P. falsely represented to pltf. that he could obtain £525 for the A. tapestry, & pltf. allowed him to take it away for delivery to a purchaser, who in fact did not exist. P. then sold the A. tapestry to deft. for £250. Subsequently P., who never had authority to sell the L. tapestry, stole it from pltf. & sold it to deft. In an action for conversion deft. contended that P. had been in possession of the tapestries as a mercantile agent within the Act of 1889, & that as he had bought them from P. in good faith he had acquired the property in them. He also contended that pltf. had held out P. as a person with authority to sell & was estopped from saying that P. had no such authority in fact :—Held : (1) although P.'s authority signed by defts. was not an authority to the agent to sign a contract containing the above terms as to payment. —BOYD v. O'CONNOR, [1923] V. Pltf. never saw deft., but pltf.'s husband arranged some form of lease with him, & thereafter collected the rent, which was paid monthly, on behalf of pltf. & with her authority. In an action of ejectment deft. alleged that pltf.'s husband had given him a lease for four years from Dec. 1913, & that he was a tenant from year to year. Pltf. denied any knowledge of a lease for a term, or that she had given authority to her husband to make such a lease :—Held : the fact that pltf.'s husband had collected her rent was no evidence that he had authority to make a lease for four years on her behalf.—VOGE v. KERR (1919), 19 N. The agent submitted the property to pltf., who elected to take a lease. 495a. Act of 1889—Agent obtaining possession by trick—Authority to sell—At specified price.]—The owner of a motor car delivered it to a mercantile agent for sale. The owner stipulated & the agent agreed that the car should not be sold at less than a specified price without the owner's permission. The agent intended from the beginning to sell the car immediately for the best price he could get & to use the proceeds for his own purposes. On the day on which he got the car he sold it for less than the specified price to a purchaser who bought it in good faith & without notice of the agent's fraud. The agent misappropriated the proceeds. The car was subsequently purchased by deft. In an action of detinue by the owner of the car against deft.:—Held: (1) deft. acquired a good title by virtue of 1889 Act, s. 2; (2) the mercantile agent had not rendered himself liable to be convicted of larceny by a trick, inasmuch as he was authorised by pltf. to pass the property in the car to a purchaser; (3) as pltf. in fact consented to the mercantile agent having possession of the car, it was immaterial whether the latter committed larceny by a trick.—FOLKES v. KING, [1923] 1 K. 495b. —— —— —— To specified person—Sale to third party.]—Pltf., desiring to sell his motor car for £210, & being informed by N. that he had a friend H., who would probably buy it for that price, allowed N. to have possession of the car for the sole purpose of showing it & endeavouring to sell it to H. There was no such person as H., & N. represented that there was with the intention of obtaining the car for his own benefit. N. afterwards through an intermediary sold the car to defts. for £110. Before N. got possession of the car he had been convicted of theft & other offences, but that was not known to any of the parties. While N. was in possession of the car he obtained an appointment as car salesman to a firm of motor engineers. In an action by pltf. against defts. for the return of the car or its value & damages for its detention:—Held: (1) N. had obtained the car from pltf. by larceny by a trick, pltf. never having given any real consent to his having or passing the property therein, & pltf. should succeed in the action unless defts. had some valid defence thereto; (2) defts. could not rely upon the defence that under 1889 Act, s. 2 (1), the sale to them was as valid as if the seller had been expressly authorised by pltf. to make the same, inasmuch as N. was not a "mercantile agent," &, if he was, the sale by him was not a sale in the ordinary course of his business as a mercantile agent, within that sub-section; &, further, because defts. had failed to satisfy the proviso to that sub-section by showing that they had not at the time of the disposition notice that N. had not authority to sell the car; & defts. had no defence to the action.

(3) Under 1889 Act, s. 2 (1), proviso, the onus is on the person taking under the disposition of the goods made by the mercantile agent of proving that he acted in good faith & without notice of the agent's want of authority, & is not upon the person whose goods have been disposed of by the agent of proving the contrary.—HEAP v. MOTORISTS' ADVISORY AGENCY, LTD., [1923] 1 K. 608a. Tenant of public-house—Not being licensee—Holding out.]—Deft. was the licensee of a public-house at which meals were served. In 1917, an agreement was entered into between deft. & the general manager of the owners & a third person, whereby the latter became the tenant of the licensed premises & deft. was released from all obligations under the tenancy. The licence, however, was not transferred, & deft.'s name remained painted up over the doorway. During the continuance of the new tenancy liquor as well as food was sold on the premises. Pltfs., during this period, supplied fish, fruit & vegetables to the tenant. The accounts were not fully met, & pltfs., on discovering that deft. was the licensee, which discovery was made after the goods had been supplied, sought to make him liable for the price on the ground that the tenant was either the agent of deft. by operation of law, or that deft. was estopped from denying such agency : —Held : where two people agreed that one should illegally & improperly occupy a position which could only be lawfully occupied by the other, that did not necessarily make the person occupying the position the agent for all purposes of the person who ought to be occupying it ; the tenant was not in fact deft.'s agent ; & as between himself & pltfs., deft. was not estopped from setting up the true state of affairs, because, whatever misrepresentations were made, they did not reach pltfs. nor cause them to act to their detriment.—MACFISHERIES, LTD. v. HARRISON (1924), 93 L. 704a. Mess committee—Goods ordered by secretary.]—Pltf. supplied goods to the officers' mess of a brigade of which deft. was at the time commanding officer, the orders for the goods being given by the secretary of the mess committee. Pltf. sued deft. for the price, alleging that under the King's Regulations deft. was liable or that he was liable as principal for the acts of the mess secretary : —Held : the Regulations did not create any liability between the commanding officer & tradesmen, & as deft. neither gave nor authorised the orders, & pltf. did not give deft. credit, the action failed.—LASCELLES v

Pltfs. had notified their customers, including defts., that all cheques must be made payable to pltfs.' order, & not to that of W. Defts. nevertheless paid for coal supplied to them by pltfs. by cheques made payable to W. or order. All these cheques were duly honoured on presentation. 834a. —— ——.]—A general authority to an agent to find a purchaser of a house does not authorise the agent to sign a contract binding on the vendor. There must, to justify such a signing, be a special & express authority to sign.—LEWCOCK v. BROMLEY (1920), 127 L. T. 116; 37 T. L. R. 48; 65 Sol. Jo. 75.

834b. —— ——.]—The mere employment of an estate agent by an owner to dispose of a house confers no authority to make a contract. The agent is solely employed to find some one to negotiate with the owner. But if the agent is definitely instructed to sell at a certain price, those instructions involve authority to make a binding contract & to sign an agreement.

815 iii b. —— —— —— ——.]—A land agent, whom pltf. had informed of his willingness to sell a property for £900, obtained an offer of £825 & telegraphed it to pltf., but through a mistake in transmission the message as delivered to pltf. mentioned £925 as the amount of offer. Pltf. telegraphed his acceptance without naming an amount. The offer having been withdrawn, the agent agreed to sell the property to deft. for £825, & let him into possession. On the tender of the formal contract to pltf. for execution a month later he learned about the mistake in the telegram for the first time & refused to complete :—Held : the specific authority originally given to the agent did not authorise the sale of pltf.'s property for less than £900, & no land agent as such is held out as having a general authority on behalf of his client to sell on any terms or at any price.—SHORTAL v. BUCHANAN, [1920] N. 815 v. —— —— ——.]—Pltfs., an incorporated co., owning lots of land, appointed C. their general manager to supervise the sale of the lots. In the agreement between pltfs. & C. it was provided that he had no authority to make any representation as to pltfs.' properties other than those contained in their printed matter, & that he should have authority to accept offers for the purchase of lots according to pltfs.' price-list. Pltfs. employed G. to sell their lots. G., in Mar. 1914, telephoned to deft. from pltfs.' office & induced deft. to buy two of the lots, upon the express agreement that pltfs. would resell the lots not later than Aug. 1914, at a profit of $100 on each lot; G. informed deft. that he was authorised by C. to make this arrangement. C. was present when G. was telephoning, & heard what G. said; C. told G. that he should not have said that pltfs. would resell the lots; but, according to the testimony of G., C. himself was not called as a witness, C. ratified the representation made in his name & ostensibly by his authority :—Held : C., as general manager, had ostensible authority to make or ratify the collateral agreement, & any secret restriction of his authority would not affect deft., who relied upon his being the general manager.—CANADIAN GENERAL SECURITIES CO., LTD. v. GEORGE (1918), 42 O. 817 ii. —— Implied authority]—A broker who had purchased corn on margin for a customer :—Held : justified in selling on the customer failing to forward margin money when a slump occurred in the market-price, a general condition of the broker transacting such business being that he reserved the right to close transactions without further notice when margins were unsatisfactory, which condition the ct. inferred must have been known to the customer who had been for some time a "room trader" & dealer on a larger scale in the broker's office.—MALOOF v. BICKELL, [1920] 1 W W R. 407; 50 D. The same will be paid at the registration of the conveyance, otherwise not." The offer contained in the letter was accepted by pltf. & thereupon the fact of such acceptance was communicated on the same day to deft. :—Held : the offer contained in the letter amounted only to an offer to be put into touch with intending buyers of the premises & it was in no sense an authority to the brokers to sell deft.'s property or an offer on the part of the vendor to sell the premises to whoever might be brought in touch with the vendor by the brokers.—PURNA CHANDRA DUTT v. INDRA CHANDRA ROY (1921), I. A tender was received by the solrs. & forwarded by them to the exors & they wrote acknowledging the receipt thereof. Some days later the tenant of the property forwarded a tender to one of the exors., who did not communicate with his co-exor. or the solrs. about it. The solrs., having heard no more from the exors. entered into a contract to sell the property to the person who made the first tender :—Held : the solrs. had no authority to give notice to the person making the first offer that his tender was accepted.—DEANS v. ORR (1922), 63 D. into by letters between pltfs. & H. & R., estate agents, whom pltfs. alleged were agents for the first deft. for the sale to pltfs. of freehold premises. The defence was that the agents had a limited authority to state a price only. The premises had been offered for sale by auction by order of the mtgees. under particulars & conditions of sale referred to in the correspondence on Jan. 18. H. & R. inclosed plan & auction particulars to pltfs. stating in their letter that their client would be willing to sell the freehold at £550. On Jan. 27, pltfs. offered £400. On the 28th H. & R. submitted that offer to the first deft., & asked for her instructions. On Feb. 8, the first deft.'s husband communicated with H. & R. over the telephone, & on Feb. 10, they wrote to pltfs. stating that their client would not accept £400, & that "we are now authorised to close with you if you will increase your offer to £450." Pltfs., on Feb. 14, wrote to H. & R. referring to the letter of Feb. 10, & stating "we are prepared to accept your offer of this property agreeing to the price of £450. Kindly forward the contract in due course." On Feb. 17, H. & R. wrote informing the first deft. that, as instructed by her husband, they had offered the property to pltfs. for £450, & that pltfs. had agreed to buy. The second deft. was prepared to purchase the property from the mtgees. at a price more than £450 :—Held : the agents had authority to conclude the contract, & pltfs. were entitled to judgment for specific performance of it.—ALLEN & Co., LTD. v. WHITEMAN (1920), 89 L. 885a. Grant of sole selling agency—Power of grantee to extend privilege—Extension to company controlled by agent.]— The firm of R. & Co., one of applts., were the sole agents in the Island of Mauritius of the F. Co. of Canada for the sale of F. motor cars & F. spare parts. With the concurrence of said F. co. R. & Co. entered into an identical agreement with each of three garages under which said garages were given the exclusive right to sell F. spare parts in the Island. The agreements reserved, however, to R. & Co. the right to extend the same privileges to two other garages to be chosen by R. & Co. One of said three garage cos., a co. of which the three partners of R. & Co. were directors, went into voluntary liquidation ; &, at the instance of R. & Co., a new co., to wit, resp., was formed, independent entirely of R. & Co. The new co. took over the stock-in-trade of the co. in liquidation & its sub-agency business in F. spare parts. Later, R. & Co. formed another co., the F. Service Station Co., Ltd., one of applts., & conceded to it the privilege of selling F. spare parts within the Island. In the shares of this new co., the then four members of R. & Co., took & retained a controlling interest, the remaining shares being held by their relatives or employees. To this co. the firm of R. & Co. gave the right, in effect, to be & represent itself as being the F. retail distributor in the Island, not only for the sale of F. parts but also for F. cars :—Held : R. & Co. were not entitled under the agreement to choose themselves as one of the garages to whom the privileges of the agreement might be extended, &, consequently, what the firm could not do itself it could not do through a co. controlled by it, & the course adopted by the firm in forming applt. co. was not less damaging to the three other garages than would have been the similar activities of the firm itself. An injunction was granted to the resp. restraining R. & Co. from conceding to the F. Service Station Co., Ltd., the privilege of selling F. spare parts within the Island.—AUTO CAR & SPORT EQUIPMENT CO., LTD. v. FORD SERVICE STATION CO., LTD., [1931] 3 W. W. R. 363, P. C.

945a. ——.]—Pltfs., who were financially interested in goods to be shipped to B., employed defts., B. Bank, who, in turn, employed sub-agents to collect the proceeds. Pltfs. wrote to defts.: "We beg to hand you herewith the undermentioned bills for collection, subject to the deduction of commission & expenses & to the condition mentioned." That condition was: "Collections are undertaken at depositor's risk only on the understanding that no liability whatever attaches to the bank in connection therewith or with the storage and insurance of the relative goods." In the margin of the document under the heading "Instructions" was the following: "Documents to be surrendered against payment: if goods are not taken up, please do your best on our behalf to warehouse & insure them against fire." This document was received by the deft. bank, who acted upon it. Goods to which the bills related were destroyed by fire at the Customs House, B., when uninsured. Pltfs. alleged that their loss was due to negligence on the part of the deft. bank & (or) their sub-agents in omitting to insure the goods. It was contended for pltfs. that the clause providing that no liability should attach to deft. bank must be disregarded, as being repugnant to the contractual duty undertaken by the defts. to do their best to warehouse & insure the goods against fire. The action was brought by the C. P. Assocn. against B. Bank & the A.-P. Co., their sub-agents:—Held: although in certain cases where the employment of a sub-agent was authorised the agent might be impliedly authorised to create privity of contract between the principal & the sub-agent, there was no general rule of English law that such authority should be implied when a sub-agency was authorised. In the present case no such authority was to be implied & the claim against the sub-agents failed.—CALICO PRINTERS' ASSOCN., LTD. v. BARCLAYS BANK (1931), 145 L. T. 51; 36 Com. Cas. 197, C. A.

Pltf., on discovering the facts, did not at once inform the bank, but about nine months later, when his wife told him that she wanted more money for her sister, he stated his intention of going to the bank, & that night his wife committed suicide. Pltf. then went to the bank & told the manager about the forged cheques. In an action by pltf., claiming to be credited by deft. bank with the amount of the forged cheques, the bank pleaded (a) adoption & ratification, & (b) that pltf. was estopped by his silence from alleging that the signatures were forgeries. The tribunal of first instance found that the forged cheques were honoured through the carelessness of the bank officials. There was no evidence that the pltf. had ever adopted the forged cheques as his own :—Held : ratification had no applicability to a forged signature, but pltf. was estopped from alleging the forgeries because his silence until after his wife's death had caused the bank to lose their right of action against the forger, & therefore the action failed.—GREENWOOD v. MARTINS BANK, LTD. Deft. wrote a letter to the board saying that he would sell certain property to the board for £6,500. At a full meeting of the board instructions were given to arrange for an inspection of the property by members of the board on a specified date. A deputation, consisting of pltf. & twelve other members of the board, viewed the property & had an interview with deft. The price of £6,500 was again mentioned, & deft. was told that all the members of the board present had resolved to buy the property, & that they could carry the necessary resolution, & they purported to accept deft.'s offer subject to a formal meeting. The secretary of the charity stated that the deputation was not a quorum & could not act as a properly constituted board. On the next day deft. wrote to the secretary promising that the deeds of the property should be left to be inspected by the solr. to the charity, & that his own solr. would forward a form of contract ; & the secretary thereupon sent out a notice to members of the board of a special meeting to be held two days later "to receive the report & recommendation of the deputation." On the day of that meeting deft. telegraphed to the secretary cancelling all negotiations. The meeting, however, passed resolutions to ratify the deputation's acceptance of deft.'s offer to sell for £6,500, & to instruct the solr. to the charity to require deft. to complete. In an action by pltf. on behalf of himself & of all other members of the board for specific performance of an agreement to sell the property to the charity for £6,500 :—Held : on the facts the members of the deputation did not warrant their authority to bind the board, & their acceptance of deft.'s offer was subject to ratification by the board ; (2) where an offer is accepted by an agent subject to ratification by the principal there is no contract or contractual relation until ratification, & at any time before ratification the offer may be withdrawn.—WATSON v. DAVIES, [1931] 1 Ch. 455 ; 100 L. 1033a. —— After issue of notice to abate—Before institution of proceedings.] — By a bye-law of the city council of W., which was the sanitary authority of W., it was provided that whenever the council was in vacation the mayor & the chairmen of the respective committees of the council might give such instructions as were requisite with respect to any matter of an urgent nature, provided that all such acts were in due course reported to the council. The council of W. held no meeting between July 26, 1917, & Oct. 18, 1917—the summer vacation, & the public health committee of the council did not sit between July 17, 1917, & Oct. 9, 1917. On July 17, 1917, the public health committee passed a resolution appointing its chairman, & in his absence the acting vice-chairman, to deal with all urgent matters on behalf of the committee during the summer vacation. This resolution was reported to the council & approved by them on July 26, 1917. About the middle of Sept. 1917, the medical officer of health, being satisfied that a nuisance existed upon certain premises in the district of the council & city of W., caused a written notice of the fact of its existence to be served on the owner of the premises under Public Health London Act, 1891 (c. 76), s. 3. As the nuisance was not abated, the matter was reported by the medical officer to the chairman of the public health committee, & the latter, considering that the matter was urgent, & acting under the authority conferred upon him by the resolution of the public health committee, which had been confirmed by the council, as before stated, directed that a notice should be served upon the owner of the premises requiring him to abate the nuisance in accordance with the provisions of sect. 4 of the Act. This notice, which was issued in due form, was served upon the owner on Sept. 25, 1917. This action of the chairman was reported to the public health committee at their first meeting after the summer vacation, on Oct. 9, 1917, & approved by them, & the matter was later on, on Oct. 18, 1917, reported to & approved by the council. As the nuisance still continued, proceedings were taken against the owner by the sanitary inspector, & on Dec. 5, 1917, an order was made for its abatement by the magistrate who heard the complaint. The owner thereupon applied for & was granted a rule nisi for certiorari to quash the order of the magistrate on the ground that the same was made without jurisdiction, the notice of Sept. 25, 1917, not having been given by the authority or direction of the council or of the public health committee, or after consideration by them in pursuance of Public Health London Act, 1891 (c. 76), s. 4 (1) :—Held : as the act of the duly authorised agent of the council, namely, the chairman of the public health committee, appointed to act in urgent matters during the vacation under the bye-law & in pursuance of the resolution of the committee subsequently ratified by the council, was reported to & approved & ratified by the council prior to the institution of proceedings against the owner of the premises, the ratification related back to the time of the doing of the act in question, namely, the serving of the notice of Sept. 25, 1917, & the magistrate had jurisdiction to make the order of Dec. 5, 1917.—R. v. CHAPMAN, Ex p. ARLIDGE, [1918] 2 K. £860, & the following day signed a proposal for a lease for 35 years from Sept. 29, 1884, at the yearly rent of £200. P. was only tenant for life of the lands, & could not take a fine, & there was no mention in the agreement with D. of the payment by him of the £860. On Jan. 6, 1885, the writ in the present action was issued by P. against H. claiming £1,000 damages for mesne profits from the expiration of the lease on Sept. 29, 1880, & in the alternative £1,000 for use & occupation. H. by his defence claimed the benefit of the payment by D. of the £860, & by leave of the judge at the trial paid 6*d.* into ct. on the count in trespass. At the trial P.'s agent deposed that he told D. that whoever gave him £860 would get the land. D., who was examined for H., deposed that he knew £860 was claimed from H. for arrears of rent & costs, & that he was willing to pay that sum on getting a good lease. The question left to the jury was "whether the £860 was paid by D. & received by P. as for the rent of the farm due by H." They found that it was, & that the 6*d.* lodged in ct. was sufficient :—Held : there was evidence proper to be submitted to the jury that the £860 was paid by D. & received by H. as & for the arrears of rent & costs, & that it was competent for H. to adopt & claim the benefit of the payment as a defence to the present action.—PURCELL v. HENDERSON (1885), L. These properties both belonged to another client of the agent's firm, who, in 1905, died insolvent, & heavily indebted to the firm. He had granted an ex facie absolute disposition of the tenement property in favour of the firm prior in date to the bond for £1,000, which loan was accordingly not validly secured ; & the postponed bond for £200 was worthless, as the prior bond exhausted the value of the security subjects. None of these facts were communicated to the lender :—Held : while the agents were not guilty of negligence in investing the money as they did in 1903, in view of the fact that they were called upon to obtain a 5 per cent. investment, they were guilty of negligence upon the death of the borrower in 1905, in respect that, a conflict of interest having then arisen between them & the lender in connection with the £1,000 bond, they failed to inform their client of the position, failed to realise her investments, & failed to advise her to seek independent legal advice.—Wernham v. M'Lean, Baird & Neilson, [1925] S. After this case add "See, generally, COMPANIES, Vol. IX., pp. 553 et seq."

1263a. ——.]—Agents employed to sell land are generally employed to obtain the best purchase price reasonably obtainable. Their duty to their principal does not cease when they have procured an offer to purchase which he accepts subject to contract. It is still their duty to inform him of any offer which they receive at a higher price than that so accepted, & they remain subject to this duty until final contracts of sale & purchase have been signed & exchanged.

The owner of house property employed a firm of house agents to sell the property. They gave particulars to a tenant of the property, among other persons, & procured an offer from a prospective purchaser. They communicated this offer to the owner, & he accepted it subject to contract. The tenant then made an offer to the agents to purchase the property from the prospective purchaser at an increased price. In the bonâ fide belief that they had performed their duty as agents to the owner when he had accepted the offer of the prospective purchaser subject to contract, they omitted to inform the owner of the offer of the tenant. Afterwards final contracts for the sale & purchase of the property were signed & exchanged by & between the owner & the prospective purchaser. The owner then brought an action against the agents for damages for breach of duty in not disclosing to him the offer of the tenant before the contracts were signed & exchanged. The agents counterclaimed for commission on the sale of the property :—Held : the obligation of the agents to the owner was not fully performed when he had accepted the offer subject to contract but continued until final contracts were exchanged ; this obligation involved a duty to communicate to him the offer of the tenant ; having committed a breach of this duty they were liable in an action for damages, & the measure of damages was the difference between the price named in the contracts & the price offered by the tenant ; also in the circumstances the agents were entitled to their commission.

There may well be breaches of duty which do not go to the whole contract, & which would not prevent the agent from recovering his remuneration ; & as in this case it is found that the agents acted in good faith, & as the transaction was completed & applt. has had the benefit of it, he must pay the commission (ATKIN, L.J.). — KEPPEL v. WHEELER, [1927] 1 K. 1260 i. Factor.]—Where advances are made by a factor on the security of a world commodity, such as grain, consigned to him for sale, it is his duty to deal with the goods in such a way as to guard, not only himself, but the principal also, against loss. There is implied in every such transaction a right on the part of the factor to realise on his security whenever the exigency of the case demands it.—UNITED GRAIN GROWERS, LTD. v. MABEY, [1925] 1 D. 1260 ii. —.]—Where an elevator company advances money on the security of grain delivered to it in storage which it is authorised by the contract between it & the borrower to sell without notice at any time it deems itself unsecure, the co. is not, in the absence of an express agreement to that effect, restricted to resorting to the pledged grain to obtain repayment, but can sue on the implied promise to repay which is ordinarily incident to a loan ; &, moreover, the co. is not obliged to sell the grain &, if it does sell it, cannot be held to have been negligent &, therefore, liable to the borrower merely because it did not sell at a time when it could have received a higher price than it did receive.—PATTERSON (N. M.) & Co., LTD. v. CARNDUFF, [1931] 2 W. W. R. 221.—CAN.

1262 ii. —— Extent of duties.]—If a local agent is entrusted by an absent owner with looking after & renting a furnished house, then, although he is not an insurer of the safety of the property, he must use reasonable care & diligence in its protection & preservation, & if he fails to do so he will be liable for the resulting loss. If furniture disappears or is damaged beyond reasonable wear & tear, he is primâ facie liable to account for it. Evidence sufficient to excuse him from liability would in some instances be quite light, in others more burdensome, depending on such questions as the checking over or not of the articles of the furniture, the character of the tenants & the constituents of the tenant's family, the value & nature of the missing articles, etc.

When the owner claims damages against the agent for lost or damaged articles the question of liability may be directly involved in regard to each article, & that liability is a question for the judge, & in such case the value of any article or the damage done to it can be most conveniently determined by the judge when deciding the question of liability, rather than by a referee.—CARLILE v. NORTHERN TRUSTS CO., [1924] 2 W. 1262 iii. —— ——.]—A house agent, employed to look after the renting of a furnished house, must keep a proper inventory of the furniture & check it over carefully with each incoming & outgoing tenant, & he must exercise care in seeing that tenants to whom he rents the house are the proper sort of persons to occupy it ; but, in the absence of a special contract, the agent is not a guarantor of the rent, or bound to pay the taxes, or to notify the owner so as to prevent a sale of the house for non-payment thereof.—HYLAND v. COSTERTON (B. 1426a. Proceeds of sale of goods—Goods consigned by commission agents for principal—Right of agent to set off claims against consignors.]—In 1917 pltf. & F., merchants at Odessa in the Russian Ukraine, consigned large quantities of pigs' bristles to a Russian bank at Odessa, as commission agents, to send the goods to England for sale & remit the proceeds to the consignors. The bank, as principals, sent the goods to defts., as their agents, who knew that pltf. & F. were the original consignors. Afterwards the revolution broke out in Russia, & in Dec. 1917, all private banks in Russia were abolished by decree of the Govt., & in 1918 their assets & liabilities were taken over by the People's Bank of the Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic. In 1920 the People's Bank was by further decree abolished & its assets & liabilities were transferred to the Central Budget & Accounts Administration of the Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic. One result of this legislation was that the head office of the Odessa bank in Petrograd was raided & its shares were confiscated, but the Odessa bank was allowed to carry on its business as usual until 1920, when it was closed by a local soviet. This permission was the result of the establishment of an independent republican Govt. over the Ukraine—the Ukrainian Soviet Govt., over which the Russian Soviet Govt. claimed neither a de facto nor de jure jurisdiction, & which was also recognised by foreign powers as an independent Govt. Later on a full federation was entered into between the Ukraine Republic & the Russian Soviet Republic & recognised as a de facto &, recently, as a de jure Govt. by the Govt. of this country. During transit of the goods to England some of the goods respectively consigned by pltf. & by F. became inextricably mixed, with the result that F. assigned all his rights in his consignment to pltf., & notice of the assignment was given to defts. Before the closing of the bank at Odessa the bank ceded all their rights in the bristles consigned to them to pltf. & F. The bristles consigned to defts. were sold by them in 1920, & pltf. demanded payment of the amount of the proceeds, less the amount of defts.' commission, but defts. refused payment, alleging (inter alia) that the goods belonged to the bank at Odessa & that defts. were entitled to set off against pltf.'s claim a debt due to them from the People's Bank in Russia & the Russian Soviet Govt., & pltf. in 1923 brought this action:—Held: (1) assuming that the bank at Odessa was an effective bank up to the time when the bank was closed, the bank's instructions to defts., followed by the transfer of the bank's rights to pltf. & F. & the transfer of F.'s rights to pltf., made it clear that the bank's title to the bristles had gone; (2) assuming that the bank was non-existent & that some other person or persons had given the instructions to sell, the sale by defts. was without the authority of the bank, & in that case the bank's title had gone. In either case pltf. as a disclosed or undisclosed principal was entitled to the proceeds, less defts.' commission with interest from the date of the demand.—DORF v. NEUMANN, LUEBECK & Co. 1501c. Agent acting for both parties—Company with separate departments as agent.] — Pltfs., a trading co., carried on an estate agency & a building business in separate buildings. Deft. employed pltfs., through their estate agency, to find a purchaser for real property, & they found C., who agreed to purchase the property subject to contract & a surveyor's report. C. employed pltfs., through their building department, to inspect the drains of the property & to make an estimate for putting them in order. As a result of the report C. claimed a reduction in the purchase-price. Subsequently after complaint by deft., pltfs. discovered that they had been acting in this way for both the potential vendor & purchaser, &, by their solrs., offered deft. to invite the purchaser to obtain an independent survey of the drains. Deft. did not accept the offer, but completed the sale at a reduction of the agreed price, the reduction being due to the work required to be done upon the drains. Pltfs. sued deft. for commission on the sale :—Held : (1) pltfs. had acted in good faith, & deft. had in fact suffered no damage, as C. would in any event have secured a report on the drains, & any competent person would have recommended an expenditure on the drains of more than the reduction in the purchase-price ; (2) pltfs. constituted one person in law, however, many businesses they might carry on, & in acting as they did they committed a breach of their duty as agents of their principal, but as deft. with full knowledge of the breach of duty on the part of pltfs. had completed the contract at the reduced price, pltfs. were entitled to commission. Defts denied that it was agreed that pltf. should be paid a commission, but it was admitted that they knew that he received commission for wagons sold by him. H. stated that he was sent to defts. by pltf. & would not have bought the wagon if he had not been persuaded by pltf. to do so :—Held : an agreement to pay commission was implied.—NICHOLAS v. DUMOULIN (1919), 46 D. 1671 xii. —— —— ——.]—It is not a general principle of law that whenever a man, having found out from the owner of property the terms upon which it can be sold or leased, produces a third party who will buy or lease on those terms, he thereby & without more entitles himself to payment of a commission by such owner. There must be, in addition to this, an intimation to the owner that a commission would be expected from him in the event of a sale or lease being effected upon the terms stated. The intimation of expectancy of a commission not negatived by the owner who permits the other to go to the trouble of finding a customer in the expectation of earning a commission, may well be a fact from which a promiseto pay a commission may be inferred. A mere volunteer who acts as a go-between between buyer & seller & ultimately produces a sale cannot upon that fact alone found a legal claim for commission, nor can a third party, who acting for a possible purchaser, obtains from a property owner terms of sale or lease, & thus brings about a completed transaction upon those identical terms, legally claim a commission from the owner in the absence of some promise to pay a commission, either express or implied.—CHAMBERLIN v. MAW (1922), 68 D. Appits. found a purchaser for the property & an agreement was executed whereby resp. agreed to sell the property "as if free from incumbrances." so. Necessity for compliance with Land Agents Act, 1922.]—Pltf., who was a land agent, received instructions from deft. to sell deft.'s property, & obtained a buyer at the price authorised, who paid pltf. a deposit of £200. On the same day that pltf. sold the property deft. sold it to another buyer & in effect repudiated the contract of sale effected by pltf. on his behalf. On the repudiation of the contract pltf. utilised the deposit of £200 received from his purchaser in the purchase of another property by the first buyer. Pltf. notwithstanding that he did not forward the deposit, with the signed contract to deft., less his commission, sued deft. for commission on the sale. Deft. applied for a nonsuit on the ground that pltf. had not complied with the provisions of Land Agents Act, 1922, s. 8, deducting his commission from the deposit, & handing the balance to deft. The magistrate having nonsuited pltf. :—Held : sect. 8 deals with the application of trust moneys & if the deal was going through it was the duty of pltf. as agent to act in compliance with it, but if the deal was not going through, if there had been repudiation as the magistrate found sect. 8 had no application. (the purchaser) farms under said purchase agreement, & delivers your grain," &, as to the remaining $780 "in the fall of 1931 under the same conditions of N. farming, & delivering the crop to you the same as 1930." Pltf. had recommended N. to defts. as a man fit & competent to perform his contract with them, but in the fall of 1930 his position was such that he was unable to carry on &, in consideration of a quit-claim deed, he was released from his contract. He had farmed the land in 1930, & delivered one-half share of the crop harvested by him to defts., but he did not summerfallow according to the terms of the contract, or pay the taxes or the interest on the unpaid purchase-money, & he negligently allowed 125 acres of standing crop to go to waste :—Held : the condition of pltf.'s right to the commission was, not merely the purchaser's delivery of deft.'s share of the grain grown on the land; but also his farming the land in accordance with the terms of his purchase agreement, &, as he had not done so in 1930, pltf. was not entitled to the $500, nor to the additional $750.—BROATCH v. VERMONT LOAN & TRUST CO., [1931] 2 W. Shortly before the expiration of the lease, the lessee asked the agent to try & get an extension of the option for twelve months, &, on the latter's advice, visited the owner for that purpose, the agent at the same time writing to the owner informing him of the proposed visit. An extension of the lease was granted, but the price of the option was increased to £1,800. The lessee exercised this option, & became the purchaser of the property :—Held : there was evidence sufficient to justify a finding that the agent was the efficient cause of the sale, & that therefore he was entitled to commission thereon.—UPJOHN v. ILLINGWORTH (1928), 29 S. sb. Agent to procure loan to third party—Loan raised by third party.]—Pltf. claimed a commission of 1 per cent. from deft. on the ground that the latter had requested him to raise a loan of £27,500, subsequently increased to £35,000, not on behalf of deft. but on behalf of one F. It was admitted that deft. had sold a certain property to F. for a sum of £45,000, £10,000 to be paid in cash & the balance to be secured by a bond over the property ; through pltf.'s efforts the manager of a certain insurance co. was prepared to advance £27,500 to F. on a first mtge. over the property & that thereafter a sum of £35,000 was in fact advanced by the insurance co. upon that security, together with certain additional securities. Deft. denied that he had made the contract alleged with pltf. & stated that the real arrangement between them was that pltf. should raise a loan of £27,500 on behalf of deft. himself & not for F., & further, that if F. paid off the whole amount of the purchase price in cash pltf. was not entitled to any commission whatever, & that F. had personally raised on his own behalf a loan of £35,000 not on the security of the property alone but on additional securities belonging to him. At the trial pltf. applied for leave to amend his declaration so as to base his claim on a mandate to raise a loan of £27,000 only. The trial ct. refused to grant the amendment & held pltf. had earned commission on £35,000, the sum actually advanced to F., but as pltf. had declared himself satisfied with £275 awarded the latter amount. Deft. having appealed :—Held : commission of 1 per cent. was promised pltf. by deft. if the former was instrumental in obtaining a loan of £27,500 from the insurance co. to F. ; further, in view of application for amendment, which should have been granted, it was unnecessary to consider whether pltf. was entitled to commission on the whole sum advanced, &, as on the facts, it was clear that £27,500 would have been advanced on the property alone, the fact that £35,000 had been lent upon the property, together with additional security, did not debar pltf. from recovering commission on £27,500.—SAMMEL v. JACOBS & Co., [1928] App. D. 353.—S. On the day when the charterparty was signed defts. signed & gave to pltfs. a commission note in these terms: "We hereby agree to pay you . . . 5 per cent. brokerage on hire. . . . Should the option of purchase contained in the charter be availed of, the brokerage on purchase to be 3½ per cent. . . ." The charterparty was acted upon until June, 1921, when defts. sold the steamship to the charterers for £65,000. Pltfs. brought an action against defts., claiming (inter alia) 3½ per cent. commission on £65,000, the price paid by the charterers for the steamship, &, in the alternative, a quantum meruit for their alleged services in effecting the same :—Held : (1) the former of these claims failed, the option of purchase mentioned in the commission note never having been exercised, & the sale effected being a sale at a different price from that upon which alone the brokerage of 3½ per cent. was to become payable ; (2) the latter claim also failed inasmuch as the parties having reduced their bargain into writing in the commission note, there was no scope for the operation of the principle of quantum meruit.—HOWARD-HOULDER & PARTNERS, LTD. v. MANX ISLES S.S. 1776c. —— Onus of proof.]—Pltf. put his business in the hands of defts., estate agents, to find a purchaser, commission being payable "on a sale being effected." Defts. found a purchaser R., who paid a deposit to defts. as agents for pltf., & entered into a binding contract with pltf. to purchase the business. For reasons, of which no evidence was given by defts., R. did not complete. Pltf. thereupon claimed the above deposit from defts. Defts. admitted the claim, but counterclaimed a larger sum as commission :—Held : defts., to be entitled to commission, were bound to introduce a purchaser ready, willing & able to complete; the onus of showing that R. was such a purchaser lay on them, & they had failed to discharge that onus, & were consequently not entitled to commission.—MARTIN v. PERRY & DAW, [1931] 2 K. 1780a. -.]—Pltfs. D. & Co., who were partnership agents, claimed to recover from deft. the sum of £92 10*s.*, being the balance of commission on the sale of deft.'s business premises at T., effected by pltfs. Deft. had advertised the property for sale, & pltfs. had sent him a "particular form" which was in blank, except the words: "I hereby instruct you to sell my business premises as per particulars above, which I declare to be correct, & agree to pay you a commission 5 per cent. on the total price paid by the purchaser & appoint you agents," which, as pltfs. alleged, they had inserted on the form before sending it to deft. On July 8, 1928, deft. filled in the form & returned it to pltfs., but he subsequently denied that the above words were on the form when he signed it. A firm of G. & Co., estate agents, believing that they had secured a likely customer for the property, communicated with pltfs. & sent their representative, P., to them, & pltfs. introduced P. to deft. Deft. alleged that P. had been introduced to him as a purchaser, but pltfs. contended that he had been introduced to deft. as another agent who would be likely to find a purchaser. Ultimately P. found a purchaser in one T., who agreed to pay £4,000 for deft.'s property. In the "particulars form" deft. had stated: "Lowest price for goodwill, fixtures, & fittings, £4,500," but he eventually accepted £4,000. Meanwhile pltfs. & G. & Co. had agreed to share the commission. Deft. subsequently paid commission amounting to £107 10*s.* to G. & Co. As this amount was £92 10*s* short of £200, the 5 per cent. commission on £4,000, pltfs. on Nov. 2, 1928, issued a writ claiming the balance from deft. The completion of the purchase did not take place until Nov. 15, 1928, & deft. contended (inter alia) that he was not liable to pay commission until he had received the purchase price. The jury found (a) that the words in relation to the 5 per cent. commission were in the particulars form of July 8, 1928, when deft. signed it, (b) that the property was sold to T. through the instrumentality of pltfs., & (c) that G. & Co. were not acting as sub-agents for pltfs. :—Held : (1) pltfs. were not to be deprived of their commission by reason of the fact that the property was ultimately sold for £4,000 instead of the £4,500 asked by deft. in the particulars form; (2) the jury's findings that the words about 5 per cent. commissions were in the document when deft. signed it, the property was sold through the instrumentality of the pltfs., & that G. & Co. were acting as sub-agents for pltfs., could not be interfered with; & (3) although pltfs. had done all the work required to entitle them to their commission, they were not in a position to claim payment of their commission until the purchase was completed, & as the writ was issued thirteen days before the date of the actual completion of the purchase, it was issued too soon & the action failed.—PRICE, DAVIES & CO. v. SMITH (1929), 141 L. Subsequently the contract having fallen through, pltf. was employed by deft. to raise money for him which it was hoped would enable the purchase & lease by A. to be carried through, & a written agreement was entered into between pltf. & deft., by which it was provided that in the event of the completion of the sale & lease deft. should pay to pltf. a certain sum "representing commission due to" pltf. "on these transactions." The sale & leasing were never completed. In an action to recover the sum mentioned in the agreement, the trial judge found that when the agreement was entered into pltf. had a right to recover a reasonable sum for commission in respect of the work he had then done, & that the contract did not deprive him of that right :—Held : pltf. was entitled to recover a sum made up of 1 per cent. of the purchase-money & 5 per cent. of a year's rent.—FRY v. BYRNE (1917), 23 C. 1793 ii. ——.]—Deft. employed pltf. as agent to sell land & equipment of cattle, horses, implements, etc., & furniture, at a price on a basis of $80 an acre with a certain cash payment. Pltf. found a purchaser who wanted the land alone, but could not make a cash payment. Deft. & the purchaser came to an agreement for sale on crop payments at $60 an acre, & signed an agreement prepared by pltf., which was crude & improvident but one from which the rights of the parties could be defined. Subsequently a more elaborate agreement was drawn by deft.'s solr., which because of certain onerous additions therein for the protection of deft. the purchaser refused to sign, & the transaction was broken off :—Held : there was in effect a sale of which pltf. was the causa causans, & he was entitled to payment for his services, on a quantum meruit basis.—Bannermann v. Bradley, [1919] 3 W. No provision was made as to what was to happen if the purchasers should default in their payments before the agents had received the full amount of their commission. During the period of the agency deft. negotiated personally & quite apart from pltfs. with a purchaser who had never had any communication with pltfs. & whom pltfs. did not know. The result of the negotiations was that the property was sold to this purchaser. Pltfs. thereupon claimed from deft. damages for breach of contract on the ground that, in selling the property direct to the purchaser, he had acted in breach of his contract with them & had thereby deprived them of their commission :—Held : (1) pltfs. were not entitled to damages, as the contract contained no express prohibition against a sale by deft. himself, & the implication of such a prohibition was not necessary to give business efficacy to the transaction ; (2) on the terms of the contract, pltfs. could not recover commission at the agreed rate on the purchase price received by deft., as they had failed to introduce the purchaser, not could they recover on a quantum meruit.—BENTALL, HORSLEY & BALDRY v. VICARY, [1931] 1 K. Deft. made the cash payment to pltf., & also other payments which amounted to 25 per cent. of all he ever received from the purchasers on principal. The purchasers being unable to meet their obligations, deft. took proceedings against them & the land reverted to him, nothing having been paid by the purchasers on the principal within the preceding three years. 1946 i. Principal bound to enable agent to earn commission.]—By agreement dated Aug. 17, 1929, R. appointed C. his sole agent to sell a certain publication in Australia on a commission basis. The agreement provided, inter alia, that the agency should commence on the date C. & R. arrived in Australia, & that it could be determined by either R. or C. on the happening of certain specified events. None of those events in fact happened. The parties came to Australia & the business of the agency was embarked upon. In Jan. 1930, R. went into partnership with S. in the business of booksellers. On Mar. 15, 1930, R. gave C. six months' notice of the termination of the agency agreement of Aug. 17, 1929. On Aug. 1, 1930, R. & S. entered into an agreement with a co. for the sale to it of the goodwill & assets of their business including the agency rights. After Aug. 1, 1930, R. did not accept any new orders from C. under the agreement of Aug. 17, 1929. C. did not know of the agreement of Aug. 1, 1930, until after Sept. 15, 1930, up to which date he regarded himself as still employed by R. He took orders for the co. & received commission from it. From Sept. 15, 1930, he was refused further employment by R. He thereupon sought to recover damages from R. for his wrongful determination of the agreement :—Held : a term could not be implied into the agency agreement that R. could terminate the agency at any time by ceasing to carry on his business, & C. was entitled to recover from R. such damages as he sustained by reason of the wrongful determination of the agreement.—COULTER v. READHEAD (1931), 31 S. Before the expiry of the three years deft. broke these undertakings & then wrote to pltfs. cancelling the agreement :—Held : as it was a necessary implication from the terms of the contract that pltfs. would not decline reasonably to introduce customers, the agreement was not void for lack of mutuality, & although the mere appointment of an agent on commission for a term of years does not carry with it the necessary implication that the business shall be carried on for that term, yet, as deft. had undertaken certain obligations to facilitate the earning of the commission & had broken his undertakings, he could not, by a purported cancellation of the contract, limit his liability for damages to the period prior to such purported cancellation.—WARREN & Co. v. AGDESHMAN (1922), 38 T. 1951a. ——.]—By an agreement made between pltf. & a limited co., which carried on business in Lancashire, in consideration of pltf. subscribing for £1,000 in shares of the co., & of introducing to the co. certain new classes of goods to be manufactured by them, the co. appointed him their sole agent in the United Kingdom, India, & the Colonies for the sale of those goods for the term of seven years, if the agent should so long live, & thereafter until the agreement should be determined by six months' notice on either side. The agent was to use his best endeavours to obtain orders for the co.'s goods at prices to be from time to time agreed upon, & all orders obtained by the agent were at once to be communicated to the co., who upon approving or rejecting the same were to inform the agent thereof & who were to carry out such orders as were accepted without undue delay; & the agent was not definitely to accept orders for the co., but only subject to confirmation & acceptance by the co., such confirmation or acceptance not to be unreasonably withheld. The co. were to pay the agent a commission upon the invoiced prices of all goods delivered by the co., & duly paid for by the respective purchasers. A few months afterwards the co. required fresh capital, & they applied to pltf. to assist them in finding it, telling him that otherwise they would have to close down. Pltf. tried to do so, but failed. The co. then asked pltf. to give up the agency for the Manchester district, telling him that he would have to stand down so far as that district was concerned, in which case they thought that they could find the necessary capital, but he refused. The co. thereupon being insolvent passed resolutions for voluntary winding up & ceased to do business through pltf. & eventually sold their business. In an action to recover damages for breach of the agreement to employ pltf. as their agent for the seven years :—Held : the agreement was to employ pltf. as agent for the seven years & a term could not be implied to the effect that the co. could terminate the agency at any time by ceasing to carry on their business; & the circumstances coupled with the voluntary winding up showed a repudiation by the co. of the agreement, & they were therefore liable in damages for the breach.—REIGATE v. UNION MANUFACTURING CO. 1967 ii. —— ——.]—In a five years' agreement between a selling agent & a firm of merchants it was provided that, if at the end of the first three years the agent had not realised a certain turnover, the merchants should be entitled to terminate the agreement. The agreement further provided that the merchants undertook to supply goods to the agent, who was bound to buy exclusively from them. At the end of the three years the value of the goods sold & delivered by the agent failed to reach the stipulated turnover, & the merchants terminated the agreement. The value of the sales effected by the agent had in fact materially exceeded the stipulated figure, but the value of the goods actually delivered by him fell short of it, owing to the failure of the merchants to supply him with the full amount of goods ordered by him. The merchants, who were not manufacturers, were dependent on delivery to themselves by the manufacturers, &, owing to war conditions, they were themselves unable to obtain the full supplies they required. They had, however, obtained sufficient goods to have implemented the agent's orders, but they preferred to distribute these goods ratably among all their agents & customers, the agent in question receiving his full share. b i. —— Goods sold—Knowledge of purchaser.]—M. left two hundred & fifty cattle with B., a cattle dealer. He gave B. written authority to sell forty-eight, & B. was to graze the rest. B. sold one hundred cattle to C., purporting to act as M.'s agent, showing the written authority & alleging further oral authority. At B.'s request C. made a cheque for the purchase price payable to him. C. bought in good faith & for value. M. repudiated the sale & sued to vindicate the cattle sold without authority :—Held : the written authority & the request for personal payment should have put the purchaser upon inquiry.—MULLER v. CHENNELLS (1923), 44 N. 2120 viii. ——.]—J., as agent of pltf., advanced sums to deft. in consideration of deft.'s going to work on a sugar estate, on behalf of K., who supplied money for the advance, to whom J. had to account, & to whom J. stated that he had accounted. Deft. stated that J. had recruited him to work for some person whose name was not given. Deft. contended in an action for refund of the advance that pltf. could not sue without cession of action from K. :—Held : pltf. had a right of action against deft.—GADLELA v. MOUNTJOY, [1921] E. 2a. Action for money paid under contract.]—Pltf., desiring to have ten vessels constructed in Canada, entered into a preliminary agreement with A., whereby A. was to enter into contracts with three builders for the construction of the vessels, called " building contracts," & at the same time into contracts with pltf., called the " vessel contracts " providing for the payment for vessels, the nature of their construction & due delivery thereof. The " building contract " & the " vessel contract " each expressly stated that a copy of the other was attached to & made a part of it. By the " building contract " deft. covenanted to build the vessels according to the terms of

2125a. Action for specific performance—Effect of non-disclosure of principal.]—Pltf. procured C. to enter into an agreement to purchase land from defts. C. never disclosed to defts. that he was acting as the agent of pltf. Subsequently C. explained to defts. that he was acting as agent for pltf., & at his request the agreement was cancelled. In an action for specific performance:—Held: the agreement not being one in which any personal qualification by C. was a material factor, the mere non-disclosure of the person actually entitled to the benefit of the contract for the sale of real estate did not amount to misrepresentation.—DYSTER v. RANDALL & SONS, [1926] Ch. 932; 95 L. 2126a. —— Sold by agent—Effect of misrepresentation as to being principal.]—G., employed as a traveller by a firm of builders, owed deft £17 for goods sold. He asked deft. to buy timber from him, telling him that he had left the employment of the builders & had set up as a timber merchant on his own account, & deft. agreed to order timber from him on the terms that G.'s debt of £17 should be set off against the price. G. had not set up in business on his own account, but was employed by pltf. as an agent for sale on commission. Timber was delivered to deft. with invoices & letters bearing the name, address, & description of pltf., which G. told deft. were his own trade name, address, & description. Pltf. brought an action in the county ct. for the price of the timber, & the county ct. judge found that deft. honestly believed that the name, address, & description on the invoices & letters were those of G., but that deft. was put upon inquiry by the invoices & letters, & had notice that G. was not selling as a principal but only as an agent for pltf., & he gave judgment for pltf. for the price of the timber:—Held: deft. had no more than constructive notice that pltf. was the principal of G., & in the circumstances constructive notice was not equivalent to actual notice; deft. had made no contract with pltf., & was entitled to judgment.—GREER v. DOWNS SUPPLY CO., [1927] 2 K. 2130a. Sub-underwriting agreement.]—Pltf., at the suggestion of M., who was a director of E. co. in Nov. 1927, was minded to underwrite shares in deft. co. about to be offered for public subscription. It had not then been started, but its object was to acquire & carry on as going concerns eight greyhound racecourses. An underwriting agreement was entered into by trustees for deft. co. & B. co. & a draft prospectus was prepared therein referred to. On the following day M. & O. offered to sub-underwrite 12,000 shares, & sent a cheque for £600 to B. co., which was accepted by them on Dec. 8. On Dec. 12, the co. was incorporated, the underwriting agreement ratified, & a similar prospectus signed by the directors, which, on Dec. 19, was issued to the public. The response not being sufficient, the balance of shares was issued to the underwriters or sub-underwriters. One of such allotments was for 8,160 to M. & O. as sub-underwriters. A number of sub-underwriters had repudiated their agreements on Dec. 16, but this was not known to the directors when they went to allotment on Dec. 17. Subsequently these 8,160 were renounced in favour of pltf. The consequence of the failure of some of the underwriting agreements was that two of the racecourses, representing about two-fifths of the estimated profits, could not be acquired. In these circumstances, this action was brought for rescission on the ground of material misrepresentations in the prospectus. Defts. denied these, & claimed for the balance due. They submitted that, the contract having been made with agents for an undisclosed principal, he could not recover:—Held: pltf. could not establish his case on the basis of principal & agent, as in such a case as this an undisclosed principal could not be substituted for the persons contracting; all the rights of the agents under the contract with the co. did not pass to pltf. by virtue of the agents' renunciation & nomination of pltf., & though there was a contract between pltf. & the co. it was not a contract based on the prospectus.—COLLINS v. ASSOCIATED GREYHOUNDS RACECOURSES, LTD., [1930] 1 Ch. 1; 99 L. 2139a. Agent acting in his own interest.]—Where an agent, in contracting on behalf of his principal, has acted within the terms of a written authority given to him by the principal, but the existence of which was not the "vessel contract," & this contract was expressed to be made with pltf. as well as with A., & deft. also confirmed provisions of the "vessel contract" for payment of the instalments of the purchase price to A. & appointed A. his agent to receive payments. Upon the signing of the contracts a first payment made by pltf. to A. was distributed by A. between the three "builders," who proceeded with the construction of the vessels. Upon pltf.'s failure to make the next deposit as provided for in the "vessel" contract, deft. gave notice terminating the contract. Pltf. having brought action for repayment by deft. of money paid on account of the vessels, less such expenses as deft. had incurred by virtue of the contract:—Held: pltf. had no right of action.—VAN HEMELRYCK v. NEW WESTMINSTER CONSTRUCTION & ENGINEERING CO., VAN HEMELRYCK v. NORTHERN CONSTRUCTION CO., VAN HEMELRYCK v. PACIFIC CONSTRUCTION CO. The campaign was to take the form of a contest for prizes to be offered for selling tickets of admission to the theatre. Pltf. was assignee for value of a prize-winner's rights:—Held: the agent's promises to the contestants were the promises of deft. as principal, & deft. was liable as principal.—ROSS v. KOBOLD, [1924] 1 D. sb. Contract in agent's name—Under seal.]—Defts. made an agreement with B. for conditional sale to him of a large quantity of land, the intention of the parties being for its subdivision & sale for fruit-farming purposes. All surveys & sales were to be approved by defts., a minimum price per acre in selling was stipulated, & the proceeds of sales were to be paid into a bank to defts.' credit, & title to be retained by defts. until the full purchase price of the sale to B. was realised. On certain amounts of sales being made, defts. agreed to do certain clearing, irrigating & tree-planting, B. acting as their agent in the supervision thereof. B. was to receive commission on sales made, should he not succeed in carrying out the agreement. B. made an approved agreement with pltf. for sale of a lot to be selected by pltf. who sought to recover from defts. the amount of payments made by him:—Held: the fact that pltf.'s agreement was with B., in B.'s own name & under seal, did not prevent recovery from defts. as for money had & received.—HITCHCOCK v. COLUMBIA VALLEY LAND CO., LTD., [1919] 2 W. 2139b. Account stated & signed by agent.]—In Mar. 1918, a tank steamer was damaged by fire & her repairs were entrusted to a firm of ship repairers at A. The steamer was insured. The owners sent out an agent from L. to expedite the repairs & authorised him to sign the repair account with the Lloyds' surveyor as "approved subject to adjustment &, conditions of insurances." In Jan. 1919, the repairers delivered to the owners an account of the repairs signed by the owners' agent & by Lloyds' surveyor in the above form after a detailed examination of the account. The owners paid part of the amount due on this account but declined to pay the balance on the ground that the charges were excessive. The repairers sued the owners for the balance of amount due for work & labour done by pltfs. & materials supplied at the request of defts., &, in the alternative, claimed the balance as being the amount found due from defts. to pltfs. on accounts stated between them & contained in an account signed by defts. by their agent, less the sums since paid by defts. in respect thereof. Defts. denied that the agent was authorised to agree the amounts due from defts. to pltfs., or that he in fact purported to agree such amount, or that the account constituted an account stated:—Held: the signature of defts.' agent was an agreement by him, with their authority, that the amount charged for the repairs was correct, &, there being no ground for re-opening the account, pltfs. were entitled to judgment.—CAMILLO TANK S.S. Both parties thereupon amended their records; the shipowners averring in both actions that they had contracted, & were litigating, as agents for the limited co.; & the engineers, as defenders in the counter-action, pleading "no title to sue":—Held: by prosecuting their own action to decree, the engineers had elected to treat defts. as their debtors in the contract.—CRAIG & CO. v. BLACKATER, [1923] S. Pltf. did not want immediate delivery of the car, & the agent wrote on the form, "The agreement to be held until car wanted." In purported compliance with said offer to purchase, the agent delivered to pltf. a car belonging to the agent subject to a lien under which it was afterwards seized & sold. The agent had meanwhile disappeared with pltf.'s money, & the co. refused pltf.'s demand for a car, the manager saying that he knew nothing of the transaction. 2273a. Liability for fraudulent preference by agent.]—If a principal leaves the control of his business in the hands of an agent so that the agent is employed to determine which of the creditors of the principal shall be paid, when they shall be paid, & why they shall be paid, a payment made by such an agent with an intention to prefer a creditor of his principal is, in the event of the bkpcy. of the principal, a fraudulent preference by the principal within 1914 Act, s. 44. It makes no difference that the agent had not authority to sign the cheques he drew & presented to his principal, nor that the principal when signing them had no intention to prefer any creditor, but honestly believed the payments so made to be proper & in the ordinary course of business.

A firm of builders, having contracted to erect houses at S., employed T. as their salaried agent to control & manage the purchase of & payment for building materials, & generally to supervise & advise the firm on financial matters in relation to the contract. The partners had no knowledge as to the terms upon which the materials supplied had in fact been purchased, nor were they aware of any of the circumstances relating to any payments they in fact made. They signed cheques drawn by the agent as & when he prepared & presented them, but the agent had no right to make any payment except by cheques signed by his principals. The partners having become bkpts., it appeared in the bkpcy. proceedings that less than three months before the date of the receiving order, T., intending to prefer S. & Co., creditors of his principals & then well aware of his principals' insolvency, presented to F., the managing partner, two cheques which T. had drawn & which F. signed without inquiry in the honest belief that T. intended thereby to make proper payments but which were in fact intended & devoted by T., one to the extent of £100 in payment of a debt due by his principals under a contract other than the S. contract, & the other to the extent of £647 in payment of goods delivered by S. & Co. on credit terms not then expired :—Held : the partners as principals were bound by the acts of their agent T. when he, acting within the scope of his employment & as their agent, made the payments in question, & the act of the agent in making the payments with knowledge of the principals' insolvency & with a view of giving a preference must be treated as the act of the principals.—Re Drabble Bros., [1930] 2 Ch. 211; 99 L. sh. Lapse of time putting third party on inquiry.]—Applt., a contractor, had obtained a contract to work the O. quarry for a municipality, one of the terms being that he should not transfer any of the work to other persons without the consent of the engineer of the municipality. During the period June to Sept. 1926, resp., in response to orders given over the telephone from the quarry, supplied applt. at the quarry with coal to the value of £35, which amount was duly paid by applt. Thereafter no further coal was ordered until Jan. 1928, when certain further orders were received by resp. over the telephone for coal to be delivered at the quarry. The coal was delivered & the delivery notes were signed on behalf of the O. quarry. At this time applt. was no longer at the quarry, but had sublet the contract to S. & G. Applt. had not given notice in any form of this fact. After delivery of portion of the coal, resp. inquired from the municipal engineer whether the contract had been sublet, & upon receiving an answer in the negative supplied further coal to the quarry, making no attempt to communicate with applt. It was not disputed that orders had been given for the coal by S. & G., & that as between themselves & applt. they had no authority to bind the latter's credit :—Held : assuming S. & G. professed to act on applt.'s behalf, applt. could not have reasonably foreseen that a tradesman from whom he had ordered goods some eighteen months before over the telephone would act upon further telephone orders without communicating with him, & he was therefore not estopped from denying the authority of S. & G. to find his credit.—MONZOLI v. SMITH, [1929] A. 2474a. ——.]—The owners of a chartered ship sued the K. Coal Co. for demurrage at the port of loading under a charterparty expressed to be entered into " between G. T. G. & Co., owners' agents, & A. B. Co., Copenhagen, charterers." The charterparty, which was on a printed form, provided for payment of demurrage by " the charterers," & at the end of the charterparty the following stipulation was added in writing : " Freight & demurrage (if any in loading) to be paid in Glasgow by the K. Coal Co., Ltd." The charterparty was signed as follows : " For the A. B. Co., Copenhagen, J. B. J., of the K. Coal Co., Ltd. For & by telegraphic authority of owners, for G. T. G. & Co., J. M., as agents only." It was admitted that J. B. J. signed on behalf of the K. Coal Co. :—Held : (1) the K. Coal Co. were not by reason of the form of the signature made liable upon the charterparty ; (2) the clause in writing did not import a promise of liability sufficient to rebut any inference to the contrary from the form of the signature.—KIMBER COAL CO. v. STONE & ROLFE, LTD., [1926] A. 2487a. ——.]—Pltf., a builder, did work on the order of H., a director of a co. for which pltf. had previously done work on H.'s order. As the work proceeded pltf. prepared estimates & addressed them to the co. whose name he had entered in his books. When the work was finished he was paid a sum on account, but when trying to get payment of the balance he was told that the work had not been ordered on behalf of the co., but for other principals. Thereupon he sued H. The judge found that H. impliedly undertook personal liability for the work, that pltf. gave credit to the co. up to a certain date, but did so under a mistaken impression, & that he never gave exclusive credit to them in such a way as to bind himself to look to them, & that he never gave credit to H. before the work was completed :—Held : H. was liable for the balance.—GARDINER v. HEADING, [1928] 2 K. 2457 i. Agent cannot sue.]—Pltf. sent to defts. a quotation for goods, written on paper headed, " Niels Storaker, Representative for Alliance Export & Import Co., Christiania, Norway. All orders & contracts are subject to the suppliers' terms of contract. No order or contract is firmly accepted until the suppliers have consented to book it." In the letter he wrote : " All orders are booked on the understanding that my principals are given the option of shipping by steamer or sailing vessel." Defts. gave pltf. an order. Pltf. wrote to defts. saying : " I have cabled the order over to-day & I hope soon to be able to give upon cable acceptance." Subsequently he wrote : " I am glad in being able to inform you that the above-mentioned order has been booked by my principals & will send you official confirmation in due course." Pltf.'s letters were all signed " Niels Storaker " without any qualification :—Held : pltf. was contracting merely as agent, not as principal, & was not entitled to sue on the contract.—STORAKER v. SOUTHOUSE & LONG, LTD. (1920), 20 S. R. N. S W. 190.—AUS.

2457 ii. ——.]—An order for books, addressed to the publishers on a form apparently supplied by them, requested delivery through " your distributors," contained an agreement to pay them (the distributors) at their office & provided that " this order to be binding shall be accepted by them." The distributors supplied the books, & sued for the price :—Held : the action was not maintainable.—WISE v. KERR, [1925] 1 W. W. R. 849 ; 35 B. C. R. 161.—CAN.

2471 vi. —— Father & son.]—A person acting for a disclosed principal in a contract is not liable thereon, unless there be circumstances to show that he intended to render himself liable. The fact that a son residing with his father telephones for a physician to come & attend his father's servant who is ill, raises no presumption that the son agrees to pay for such services.—BLEECKER v. STUTSMAN, [1920] 3 W. e ii. Name disclosed by third party.]—Under Indian Contract Act, s. 230, pltfs. as agents for an undisclosed principal, could personally enforce the contract. 2492 i. Agent real principal.]—Where the owner in equity signs a contract for the sale of land " as agent for the owner " evidence is admissible to show that the person so contracting is the owner, & he is entitled to sue the purchaser without having given him notice prior to action brought that he was the principal, & not the agent.—MACCORMAC v. BRADFORD, [1927] S. A. S. R. 152.—AUS.

sl. Person contracting for " buyer."]—In pursuance of authority given by deft. his agents purchased sheep for pltf. In none of the telegrams between pltf. & deft.'s agents by which the purchase was arranged was deft. named, but the last telegram from the agents contained the words " Buyer confirms sale " :—Held : the words " Buyer confirms sale " showed that deft.'s agents were contracting as agents, & relieved them from personal liability on the contract.—MURRAY v. HOPKINS, [1919] N. 2546a. —— —— Unnamed principal.]—Appelts., pltfs. in the action, were English timber brokers. In Oct. 1929, they, as brokers acting on behalf of a foreign seller, sold to resp., an English buyer, a quantity of timber. The contract of sale was signed by applts. as brokers & was expressed to be made " on account of our principals," but the name of the seller was not disclosed. Delivery was to be made by instalments, & the first instalment was accepted & paid for by resp. without question. The second instalment was then delivered, but before paying for it resp. discovered that the seller was a merchant at D. with whom he had previously been in litigation & against whom he had a judgment which was still unsatisfied. Resp. thereupon refused to pay for the second instalment but offered to set off the price against so much of his unsatisfied judgment. Applts. had meanwhile paid the foreign seller themselves & had obtained the documents from him, and they brought this action in their own name to recover the price from resp. :—Held : dismissing the appeal (1) as applts. had only signed the contract in their capacity as brokers they had not themselves either rights or liabilities under it ; & (2) on the evidence there was no custom in the trade under which the ct. could imply an independent contract by the buyer to become liable to pay the brokers instead of their principals.—FLATAU, DICK & CO. v. KEEPING (1931), 36 Com. 2549a. —— —— Agents also described as charterers.]—A charterparty was expressed to be made " between T. H. S. & Co., agents for the owners " of a steamer, " & J. McK. & Co., charterers," & was signed " For & on behalf of J. McK. & Co. (as agents), J. A. McK." The steamer was to load a cargo of coal on the Tyne & proceed to a foreign port, & provision was made for the payment by the charterers of demurrage in the event of the steamer being detained beyond the stipulated time either at the port of loading or at the port of discharge. The charterparty contained numerous other provisions imposing obligations on the charterers. The owners were aware at the time when the charterparty was signed that J. McK. & Co. were acting for other persons. In an action by the owners against J. McK. & Co. for demurrage at the port of discharge :—Held : defts. having signed as agents were not liable as principals to pay demurrage, notwithstanding that they were described as charterers in the body of the charterparty.—UNIVERSAL STEAM NAVIGATION CO. v. MCKELVIE (J.) & CO., [1923] A. 2497 vii. —— Damage suffered by principal.]—In an action against shipowners for payment of the balance of the contract price of goods for a ship, the shipowners counterclaimed for damages for breach of contract. In the course of the action it appeared that the shipowners were not the registered owners of the ship, but merely acted as managers for a co. which owned her :—Held : as pltfs. had in the circumstances elected to treat defts. as their debtors, defts. were entitled to counterclaim for damages although the damages had been suffered by the principals whom they represented, & not by themselves.—CRAIG & CO. v. BLACKATER, [1923] S.
